Kennedy Declares Nation Must Get Off 'Dead Center'

Contends U.S. Can't Afford To Elect Nixon

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy said Monday night that in the Nov. 8 election all America will speak to all the world and its message must be that "America is going to start moving again."

"If we continue to stand still, if we stay grounded on dead center, if we content ourselves with our material goods and our easy life and our rosy reassurances, then the gates will soon be open to a lean and hungry enemy," the Democratic presidential candidate said.

His nationally televised speech from Convention Hall at a $100-a-plate dinner capped four intensive days of campaigning in Pennsylvania, three of them in Philadelphia and its environs.

Kennedy, who will start a two-day swing through California Tuesday, spent most of Monday in a motorcade tour of this Democratic-controlled city and said "the United States cannot possibly afford four years of Republican leadership under Mr. Nixon."

Pa. Key Battleground

He pictured Vice President Nixon, his Republican rival, as being opposed to what he called the progressive measures necessary to assure a strong, vital, growing country.

Kennedy hoped to pile up a heavy enough margin in Philadelphia, carried by the Democrats in each of the last two presidential elections, to overcome Republican strength in other parts of the state.

Like California, Nixon's home state, Pennsylvania is a key battleground in the presidential election. Each has 32 electoral votes, second only to New York's 45.

In his dinner speech, Kennedy dwelt on the kind of America in which he believes.

"I want to look beyond the name-calling, the charges, the shouting stars and meteors of this campaign, to the fixed stars that lie above—the basic principles by which we must set our course—the kind of America I want for my children and yours," he said.

Appeals To Voters

With the campaign now in its final week, Kennedy appealed to the voters for help.

"Give me your hand and your heart in the week ahead," he said. "And remember what the Bible tells us: That 'Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.'"

"If in this coming week, and in all the weeks and years that follow, we can sow the seeds of dedication and effort," he said, "we shall surely reap a great victory for our country."

Kennedy said he believes in an America where every man or woman who wants to work can find work, where men and machines are not wasted in idleness, where every child is educated according to his capacity, where elderly citizens can live in dignity and security, where every family can have a decent home, where equal rights are enjoyed by all.

Stork Has Busiest August On Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — More babies were born during August than during any previous August, the Public Health Service reported Monday.

The National Office of vital Statistics, reporting this Monday, said August was the first month during the past year in which the number of births showed a sharp increase over those in the comparable 1959 month.

There were an estimated 399,000 live births registered during August, 4.5 per cent more than the 382,000 in August 1959.

College Holds Memorial Service

Students and faculty members of California Polytechnic College at San Luis Obispo throng the men's gymnasium yesterday for a memorial service for the 22 persons including 16 football players, killed Saturday night in a plane crash at Toledo, Ohio. (AP Photofax)

Memorial Held For 16 Gridmen Killed In Crash

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — They filed silently into the massive new gymnasium Monday, the quiet shuffling of their feet in strange contrast to the cheers which normally echo across its glistening floor.

They were the students and faculty of California State Polytechnic College and the townspeople from San Luis Obispo, brought together in grief at a memorial service. Sixteen members of the school's football team and six other persons died in a flaming plane crash at Toledo, Ohio, Saturday night.

There was none of the blithe, happy-by-play between students, no cheery greetings, no jostling as they massed at the entrances, just the muted tread of hundreds of feet moving slowly toward the seats.

A Presbyterian minister, the Rev. Ray Herr, gave the invocation.

Robert Kennedy, vice president of the college, told of the awesome moment when first word of the tragedy reached the campus. At that time it was feared all 48 persons aboard the chartered plane had perished, but there were survivors.

"For this we are deeply grateful," he said. But when he spoke of the sorrow in the homes of those who died, muffled sobs rose from the audience and continued through the rest of the 20-minute service.

The three remaining games on the football schedule have been canceled.

"I guess everybody will smile again some time, but it's going to be an awfully long time," said Mrs. Lena Plunkett, restaurant hostess at a campus hangout. "This is a small town and tragedy strikes us all deeply."

Archbishop Of Canterbury To Visit Pope Next Month

LONDON (AP) — The Archbishop of Canterbury will visit Pope John XXIII at the Vatican next month. It will be the first such meeting since the Church of England split from Rome four centuries ago.

Announcement of the forthcoming visit was issued Tuesday—All Saints Day—by Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury and spiritual leader of the Church of England. His meeting with the head of the Roman Catholic Church is planned during a stop-over in Rome Dec. 1-3 on the way home from a Middle Eastern tour.

The announcement from the 73-year-old archbishop's residence, Lambeth Palace, described the Vatican meeting as "a visit of courtesy."

Although the announcement did not mention it, one likely topic of

Goldfine Aide Fined $12,500

BOSTON (AP) — Miss Mildred Papernan, confidential secretary to millionaire industrialist Bernard Goldfine, pleaded guilty Monday to indictments charging her with personal tax evasion and also as a co-defendant with Goldfine in corporate tax evasion.

The trial of Goldfine, 70, has been postponed pending his treatment for a mental condition. He is accused of evading nearly $800,000 in taxes.

Goldfine's slim, blonde secretary, now about 43, was fined $12,500, received a four-months suspended jail sentence, and two years probation for the personal tax evasion. She also faces the customary civil action for recovery of the entire tax, with penalties.

GM Will Spend $1.25 Billion On Expansion

NEW YORK (AP) — General Motors Corp. Monday disclosed plans to spend $1.25 billion for new and improved plants in 1961, including nearly $1 billion in the United States.

The announcement by Chairman Frederic G. Donner was coupled with a strong statement of confidence in "vigorous long-term growth" of the automobile industry in the U.S. and abroad.

Donner did not directly mention the present state of the national economy, but possibly had it in mind in predicting sales of seven million domestic and foreign passenger car units in the United States next year.

He conditioned the forecast on a continued rise in consumer income and consumer confidence. The prospect he sketched was more optimistic than those drawn earlier by some other industry leaders.

Army Strengthens Germ War Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army, to strengthen its defenses against germ warfare, is tripling the supplies of antibiotic wonder drugs which it keeps available.

Col. W. D. Tigert of the Army's Walter Reed Hospital disclosed this in a report Monday to the 67th annual convention of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States.

He reported also the Army is experimenting with several promising live vaccines against diseases which might be used in any such warfare. These include a Russian-developed vaccine against rabbit fever in humans and a vaccine against Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis which also can infect man.

Iran Goes Wild As Queen Gives Birth To Prince

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Queen Farah Diba Monday presented Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi his first son and there was wild rejoicing throughout Iran. Muslim street crowds cheered and shouted: "It's a boy! God is great." Police had to use fire hoses to control them.

The shah's third marriage had produced a long-sought heir to the Peacock Throne, a robust, dark-haired crown prince weighing 8 pounds 11 ounces. Iranians had looked forward to this event since the shah became their ruler in 1941.

"The baby looks like the shah," said Health Minister Dr. Jahan-shah Salem, an American-trained gynecologist who delivered the prince. "He gave a loud cry, and he's in perfect condition."

The 23-year-old queen, who was a commoner student of architecture when the shah married her last Dec. 21, was reported in fine condition.

The twice-divorced shah, 42, smiled and said "I am very happy that Almighty God accepted my prayers and granted us a child."

The shah himself has never been crowned. He has passed up the coronation to await the arrival of the heir.

The boy who is to carry on the 2,500-year-old monarchy may be named after Cyrus the Great, who founded the Persian Empire. Or he may be named Reza after the shah's father, an Iranian cavalry officer who seized the throne and established the Pahlavi dynasty in 1925.

The prince was born in the Mother's Aid Society Charity Hospital in one of the capital's poorest quarters. This institution was founded by the shah's second wife, beautiful, green-eyed Soraya, whom he divorced tearfully last year after she bore no children. It is to be known in the future as Queen Farah's Hospital.

West European Allies Approve Summit Plan

PARIS (UPI) — The West European allies Monday agreed to hold a six-nation summit conference in Paris early in December to try to iron out inter-allied quarrels.

The foreign ministers of France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg approved the summit plan at a meeting in the French Foreign Office, informed sources said.

Ike Included In Kennedy's Debate Offer

Senator Ridicules Nixon's Dependence Upon Eisenhower

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Sen. John F. Kennedy offered Monday to let President Eisenhower accompany Vice President Richard M. Nixon if the GOP candidate would agree to a fifth radio-TV debate.

Kennedy, speaking before several thousands cheering students at Temple University's concrete campus in Philadelphia, said that Nixon's "last excuse" for refusing to debate a fifth time "was that I should apologize for saying that he was reluctant to debate."

"I now make this offer to Mr. Nixon," Kennedy said. "I now offer to let President Eisenhower come with him on the fifth debate. Then we can see."

The mocking nature of the offer was apparent when Kennedy said that Nixon was "afraid to go to New York alone" to campaign this week and therefore was taking Eisenhower with him.

Ridiculing Nixon's dependence on Eisenhower, Kennedy said:

"What Mr. Nixon does not understand is that President Eisenhower is not a candidate in this election. Mr. Nixon and I will face the voters alone next week."

"It's Nixon versus Kennedy — the Republicans versus the Democrats — and I look to the future with some degree of hope."

The student audience, a number of them leaning from fraternity house windows decorated with Kennedy posters, roared its approval when Kennedy made his offer to let Eisenhower and Nixon team up against him in a TV appearance.

Katanga's Chief Dealt U.N. Slaps

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Katanga's President Moise Tshombe drew two slaps in swift succession from the United Nations Monday.

The U.N. Congo Command rejected Tshombe's demand for withdrawal of two U.N. representatives from Katanga. Then it flew back into that secessionist province an exiled Baluba politician, Jason Sendwe, who is an old foe of the president.

Rajeshwar Dayal of India, the chief U.N. representative, announced in Leopoldville that "it is not for Tshombe or any of his associates to dictate to the United Nations what personnel it should maintain there."

More and more, the U.N. command has been refusing to discuss various demands which Congolese leaders have been trying to impose on it.

Tshombe has sought the recall of Ian Berendsen, special U.N. representative in Katanga, and Col. Henry Byrnes of Ireland's U.N. contingent.

Dayal wired Tshombe that the U.N. entered Katanga "in pursuance of the general and specific resolutions of the Security Council."

"Consequently there can be no question of the accreditation of U.N. personnel to the provincial authorities," Dayal said.

The statement pointed out that the United Nations refused to recognize Katanga as a separate political entity.

Jason Sendwe is accused by Tshombe of "crimes against Katanga" in the post-independence turmoil and has been threatened with arrest if he ever returned to this copper-rich province. The two were boyhood friends. They have feuded bitterly since Tshombe seized power and proclaimed the province independent.

Weather Outlook For November

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Weather Bureau said Monday its 30-day outlook for November calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals over the southern half of the United States except above along the West Coast. Above normal temperatures were predicted for the Northeast and the Northern Plains with near normal in the remainder of the country.

Precipitation is expected to exceed normal in the northeast section of the country, the bureau said, with subnormal amounts anticipated west of the Continental Divide and near normal amounts elsewhere in the nation.

Soviet Presses Dag For New Congo Report

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union demanded Monday an immediate report from U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld on how the U.N. command is coping with alleged efforts of Belgian army officers to bring about economic and political chaos in the Congo.

Valerian A. Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, accused the U.N. secretary-general of imposing a curtain of secrecy on "subversive activities of Belgian agents" in the African republic.

Zorin submitted the request for a Hammarskjöld report to Ambassador Frederick K. Boland of Ireland, president of the General Assembly.

There was no direct reply from Hammarskjöld to Zorin. But the secretary-general said in answer to a somewhat similar request from Polish Ambassador Bohdan Lewandowski, current president of the General Assembly, that a new report would be available about the middle of the week.

His comment coincided with reports from the Congo that three Belgians and a white Rhodesian had been arrested on charges of masterminding a plot to plunge Kasai Province into civil war. The four were accused of leading native Baluba tribesmen in a rebellion that violated a truce agreement.

Castro Acts To Curb Exit Of Specialists From Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro's government Monday tightened its control over Cubans seeking to flee this troubled island by extending its blacklist of those banned from seeking refuge abroad.

Informed sources said the list now includes many types of professional men needed in Castro's planned economy—engineers, petroleum specialists, all government employees and Cuban executives of the many newly nationalized U.S. and Cuban businesses.

These people now must obtain special permits from their superiors before they are allowed to visit or take up residence abroad. Enforcement of this order has been noticeably strengthened in recent days.

Cleveland, Pittsburgh Talks Slated

President And GOP Nominee Hold Long Strategy Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower probably will speak in Cleveland and Pittsburgh late this week in an increased effort to help Richard M. Nixon win the presidency.

The White House described this development Monday as quite likely, with both cities to be visited the same day, probably Friday but possibly Saturday.

Cleveland and Pittsburgh are among the chief cities in two crucial states—Ohio has 25 of the nation's electoral votes and Pennsylvania 32.

Both states have given warm receptions to Nixon and his Democratic presidential opponent, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Two-Hour Session

Eisenhower, Nixon and other Republican strategists talked things over for more than two hours at the White House Monday. News men got to see neither of them, but James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, gave some information.

It was Hagerty who talked of presidential trips to Cleveland and Pittsburgh as strong probabilities. He declined to go into details of strategy for the campaign.

Hagerty likewise refused to relay any word on how Eisenhower feels about the prospective outcome of the election, one week from Tuesday.

However, plans for the President to make additional speeches, in Cleveland and Pittsburgh, would underscore the vital importance being assigned to Ohio and Pennsylvania along with five other states—New York, Illinois, Michigan, Texas and California.

New York Rally Wednesday

These seven big states together have 201 electoral votes of the 269 needed for victory. Nixon will visit Texas and California later this week.

Eisenhower spoke at Philadelphia last Friday and will join with Nixon in a big rally in New York City Wednesday. They'll campaign in nearby Westchester and Nassau counties on the way to the rally.

Hagerty was asked about a Kennedy statement at Philadelphia Monday to the effect that the Democratic candidate would be willing for Eisenhower to join with Nixon in a fifth Kennedy-Nixon televised debate.

Hagerty replied "Just say I laughed."

Guild Reduces N.Y. Demands

NEW YORK (AP) — Union news-men and their publishers inched toward each other Monday night in 11th hour talks aimed at averting a newspaper strike. But they were still a long way apart as the midnight deadline neared.

The New York Newspaper Guild cut its wage demands, but publisher negotiators said the demands still were "ridiculously high."

The Guild, which had sought a 10 per cent wage increase, reduced its proposal to 4 per cent for the first year and 3 per cent for the second year of a two-year contract.

"At this late hour, the offer is ridiculously high and very unrealistic," said Barney G. Cameron, vice president of the Herald Tribune, one of New York's seven major dailies involved. C. Raymond Hulsart, industrial relations manager of the Times, called the proposal "fantastic."

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — The government mobilized emergency aid Monday for flood-ravaged regions in the interior where damage mounted hourly in continuing torrential rains.

At least 53 persons were reported dead and 5,000 families left homeless. The government estimated that 800 buildings have been destroyed.

Sewell Avery, Former Ward Chairman, Dies

CHICAGO (AP) — Sewell Lee Avery, 86, a big businessman who never backed away from a foe — including the U.S. Army — died Monday.

Avery, in failing health for about a year, died in his apartment on exclusive Lake Shore Drive. Death was attributed to a cerebral hemorrhage. His daughter, Mrs. Roger Follansbee, said members of his family were at his bedside when he died.

Avery, former Montgomery Ward & Co. chairman, was hospitalized in May 1959 when surgeons removed a malignant tumor in his colon.

Avery headed the management of Montgomery Ward & Co. from 1931 to 1955.

His 24-year tenure frequently was enlivened by verbal bouts with stockholders, labor unions, and others who challenged his way of running his huge merchandising organization.

His most spectacular battles pitted him against the federal government in 1944 and against Louis E. Wolfson in 1955.

Two soldiers carried him out of his headquarters building during his struggle against government control—a dramatic episode that made a front page photograph in newspapers across the country.

He defeated Wolfson's bid to seize control of Ward's. But it turned out to be a pyrrhic victory because Avery quit as Ward chairman shortly after he won the decision.

Ward's front office and the White House became involved in a widely watched dispute during World War II. President Roosevelt ordered Avery to extend an expired contract with the CIO United Mail Order, Warehouse and Retail Employees until an election could determine whether the union still had a majority.

Avery refused.

Government officials, backed by troops, took command of Ward property in Chicago April 26 1944. Two soldiers toted Avery from his office the next day and deposited him in the street.

Castro Acts To Curb Exit Of Specialists From Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro's bound for Miami with a full load of passengers was delayed at Havana Airport for three hours while officials checked and rechecked all passengers. Six persons, apparently all Cubans, were taken off the plane before it left.

The latest move is to delay the baggage of those flying out of Cuba and forward it on later flights. Officials term it strictly a security precaution.

Some of the nation's best trained and most experienced men already have left the country. Among these are at least 16 Cuban technicians at the Shell Oil refinery. Esso Standard and Texaco refineries, now operated by the government petroleum monopoly, also have left.

"It's beginning to pinch," said Monday a Cubana Airlines plane

Weather Outlook For November

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Weather Bureau said Monday its 30-day outlook for November calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals over the southern half of the United States except above along the West Coast.

Above normal temperatures were predicted for the Northeast and the Northern Plains with near normal in the remainder of the country.

Precipitation is expected to exceed normal in the northeast section of the country, the bureau said, with subnormal amounts anticipated west of the Continental Divide and near normal amounts elsewhere in the nation.

Soviet Presses Dag For New Congo Report

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union demanded Monday an immediate report from U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold on how the U.N. command is coping with alleged efforts of Belgian army officers to bring about economic and political chaos in the Congo.

Valerian A. Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, accused the U.N. secretary-general of imposing a curtain of secrecy on "subversive activities of Belgian agents" in the African republic.

Zorin submitted the request for a Hammarskjold report to Ambassador Frederick K. Boland of Ireland, president of the General Assembly.

There was no direct reply from Hammarskjold to Zorin. But the secretary-general said in answer to a somewhat similar request from Polish Ambassador Bohdan Lewandowski, current president of the Security Council, that a new report would be available about the middle of the week.

His comment coincided with reports from the Congo that three Belgians and a white Rhodesian had been arrested on charges of masterminding a plot to plunge Kasai Province into civil war. The four were accused of leading Congolese Baluba tribesmen in a rebellion that violated a truce agreement.

Cleveland, Pittsburgh Talks Slated

President And GOP Nominee Hold Long Strategy Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower probably will speak in Cleveland and Pittsburgh late this week in an increased effort to help Richard M. Nixon win the presidency.

The White House described this development Monday as quite likely, with both cities to be visited the same day, probably Friday but possibly Saturday.

Cleveland and Pittsburgh are among the chief cities in two crucial states—Ohio has 25 of the nation's electoral votes and Pennsylvania 32.

Both states have given warm receptions to Nixon and his Democratic presidential opponent, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Two-Hour Session

Eisenhower, Nixon and other Republican strategists talked things over for more than two hours at the White House Monday. Newsmen got to see neither of them, but James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, gave some information.

It was Hagerty who talked of presidential trips to Cleveland and Pittsburgh as strong probabilities. He declined to go into details of strategy for the campaign.

Hagerty likewise refused to relay any word on how Eisenhower feels about the prospective outcome of the election, one week from Tuesday.

However, plans for the President to make additional speeches, in Cleveland and Pittsburgh, would underscore the vital importance being assigned to Ohio and Pennsylvania along with five other states—New York, Illinois, Michigan, Texas and California.

New York Rally Wednesday

These seven big states together have 201 electoral votes of the 269 needed for victory. Nixon will visit Texas and California later this week.

Eisenhower spoke at Philadelphia last Friday and will join with Nixon in a big rally in New York City Wednesday. They'll campaign in nearby Westchester and Nassau counties on the way to the rally.

Hagerty was asked about a Kennedy statement at Philadelphia Monday to the effect that the Democratic candidate would be willing for Eisenhower to join with Nixon in a fifth Kennedy-Nixon televised debate.

Hagerty replied "Just say I laughed."

Guild Reduces N.Y. Demands

NEW YORK (AP) — Union newsmen and their publishers inched toward each other Monday night in 11th hour talks aimed at averting a newspaper strike. But they were still a long way apart as the midnight deadline neared.

The New York Newspaper Guild cut its wage demands, but publisher negotiators said the demands still were "ridiculously high."

The Guild, which had sought a 10 per cent wage increase, reduced its proposal to 4 per cent for the first year and 3 per cent for the second year of a two-year contract.

"At this late hour, the offer is ridiculously high and very unrealistic," said Barney G. Cameron, vice president of the Herald Tribune, one of New York's seven major dailies involved. C. Raymond Hulsar, industrial relations manager of the Times, called the proposal "fantastic."

53 Reported Dead In Nicaragua Flood

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — The government mobilized emergency aid Monday for flood-ravaged regions in the interior where damage mounted hourly in continuing torrential rains.

At least 53 persons were reported dead and 5,000 families left homeless. The government estimated that 800 buildings have been destroyed.

FAA Suspends Airline's Flights In Wake Of Crash

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Authorities took up the grim task Monday of preparing the bodies of 22 victims of Saturday's airliner crash for return to their homes.

All but three of the dead lived in California. Two were from Elkton, Md., and one lived in Chicago.

They died when a twin-engine charter flight, attempting a take-off in a heavy fog, crashed and burned. The California-bound aircraft carried 48 persons, including the California Polytechnic College football team.

In Washington, the government suspended the flying certificate of Arctic Pacific, Inc., which operated the C46.

Circumstances of the accident "indicate a gross disregard for public safety and the regulations of the Federal Aviation Agency," said E. R. Quesada, federal aviation administrator.

James Springer, head of the airlines, countered that "The facts brought out by the investigation will not indicate anything of that severe a nature."

Springer, who was in Toledo to arrange transportation for the victims' bodies, said the suspension was "a complete surprise" and would have "a very serious effect on our airline." The Oakland, Calif., firm operates three aircraft in addition to the one that crashed.

Some hours after the FAA issued its suspension order against Arctic Pacific, it was learned in Washington that the FAA last week had ordered all owners of C46s to have their planes inspected to determine whether certain wing bolts need replacement.

The order traced to a C46 crash near Plain City, Utah, Oct. 15 in which two men were killed.

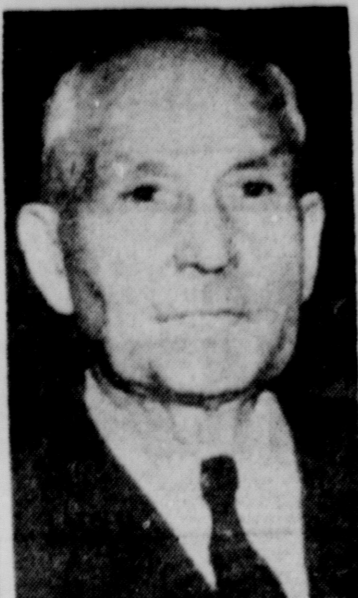

The inspection order was issued at the recommendation of the Civil Aeronautics Board, on the basis of the CAB's investigation of the Utah crash.

Survivors of the disaster said the plane wobbled on takeoff and that one engine failed. The plane sat on the runway for about 45 minutes before the takeoff was attempted. During that time, said Brent Jobe, 19, Vista, Calif., Cal Poly head coach Leroy Hughes conferred with the pilot, Capt. Donald G. Chesser.

Jobe said the coach told the passengers: "The pilot has more in this than anyone else. He wouldn't take any chances. We have nothing to worry about."

Preparation of a report on the crash may take several weeks, John M. Cyrocki of the Civil Aeronautics Board said.

He said the CAB was "not in a position to guess" at what caused the crash.

DIES-Sewell Avery (above), 86, former chairman of Montgomery Ward & Co., died in Chicago yesterday.

Baltimore Boy Skips School Bible Reading

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 14-year-old boy deliberately violated Monday a 55-year-old rule in Baltimore public schools requiring attendance at reading of the Bible before classes.

But Dr. George B. Brain, superintendent of public instruction, withheld the prescribed suspension. Instead, he said he will wait an opinion from the Maryland Attorney General's office on legality of the rule.

The school boy, William J. Murray 3d, walked out of his home room during the daily five-minute exercise at which either the Lord's Prayer or Bible is read. Then he attended his regular classes.

By skipping the religious exercise, Murray and his mother, who are atheists, had hoped to draw his suspension and thus pave the way for a court test of the regulation.

Dr. Brain said he had reached a compromise with Fred Weisgal, a lawyer with the American Civil Liberties Union, while awaiting the attorney general's opinion. The boy, meanwhile, will be given counsel or testing in another room while the Bible is read to his classmates at the Woodbourne Junior High School.

Dr. Brain said he expected the opinion later this week.

Monday was only the second day since Oct. 12 that the boy attended school. He had originally stayed home as his protest to the compulsory religious reading.

This raised the risk of his mother being prosecuted for violation of a state law requiring school attendance.

Convicted Slayer's Petition Dismissed

TOWSON, Md. (AP)—A 24-year-old former New Jersey man lost another round Monday in his fight to escape the gas chamber when a Baltimore County judge dismissed his petition for relief.

Leonard B. Hall Jr., formerly of Keansburg, N. J., was found guilty last Nov. 11 on charges of fatally stabbing the wife of an Essex tavernkeeper, and originally had been sentenced to die the week of Oct. 3.

The petition, heard by Circuit Court Judge John E. Raine, was filed under a provision of Maryland's Post-Conviction Proceedure act.

The document alleged that Hall was denied the right to take the stand during the murder trial and that police refused to let him consult a lawyer, did not inform him of his legal rights and illegally obtained evidence to force a confession.

Maryland Budget Requests Up 15%

BALTIMORE (AP)—With 13 state agencies yet to report, Maryland's Department of Budget and Procurement has received general fund budget requests totaling $131,976,852, an increase of 15 per cent over current appropriations.

The increase of $17,175,000 has been requested by 137 of 150 state agencies. The current fiscal year's budget for the same agencies is $114,801,462.

Baltimore's Incumbent Congressmen Feel Safe

This is the fifth and last in an Associated Press series on the Maryland factor in the Nov. 8 election. Today's installment covers Baltimore City's three congressional districts.

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP)—Incumbent Democratic congressmen from Baltimore City have come to fear their primaries more than general elections against the Republicans.

With the imposing figure of Dwight D. Eisenhower removed this time, the three feel even safer about their reelection majorities next Tuesday.

The Republicans do not sincerely argue differently.

In addition to the absence of Ike, they lack such a local "name" vote getter as Theodore R. McKeldin anywhere on the ticket.

The formidable job of running against the heavily anchored Democratic congressmen has been left to young and relatively unknown Republicans.

Edward A. Garmatz, the Democratic representative from the Third District since 1947, is being challenged by 27-year-old Robert J. Gerstung.

Samuel N. Friedel, the only representative from the Seventh since it was created in 1952, is opposed by 31-year-old David Blum. The GOP candidate, running for office the first time, used to be a Democrat.

George H. Fallon, the Democratic dean with eight straight elections in the Fourth, is tilting against 42-year-old Melvin R. Kenney.

Since all three incumbents survived the Eisenhower onslaughts, the Republicans have only the slightest hope this year's presidential contest will bring success to any of their congressional candidates.

There is plenty of argument, however, over the majority the Democrats will be able to give John F. Kennedy over Richard M. Nixon.

It is a question that most political analysts believe will decide who gets Maryland's nine electoral votes.

The Democrats claim Kennedy will win by enough in the city to carry the state. The average estimate is a majority of 70,000.

The Republicans dispute this optimism although conceding that Kennedy should come out on top.

The GOP talks of holding Kennedy to 45,000 or less.

Eisenhower managed to win the city on his second try by 37,000 votes. The majority came from the Fourth and Seventh Districts.

Plane Crash Triple Tragedy For Farmer

ELKTON, Md. (AP)—The crash of a chartered airplane in Toledo, Ohio, Saturday night was a triple tragedy for a Cecil County farmer, John Perovich of Elk Neck.

His wife, mother and brother were among the 22 killed when the C-46 crashed and burned on takeoff. Most of the passengers were members of the California State Polytechnic College football squad.

John's brother, Howard Perovich, 30, was co-pilot of the plane. Howard was born in Elk Neck and attended high school in Elkton.

Howard was taking his mother, Mrs. Mabel Perovich, about 60, and John's wife, Betty, 30, to his Martinez Calif., home to meet his bride of last Tuesday.

Byrd Declares Compact Critics "Misinformed"

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Dr. H. C. Byrd, chairman of the Maryland Tidewater Fisheries Commission, charged Monday that recent critics of the Potomac River Compact do not fully understand its provisions.

Byrd answered a statement by former Democratic governor William Preston Lane Jr. who urged that the compact be rejected by Maryland voters.

Byrd said that Lane's statement was to the effect that the compact of 1955 was entered into "solely as a trade which gave Virginia fishing rights in the Potomac River in return for an agreement of the Franklin D. Roosevelt land-not to levy tolls against Maryland. It's a district in which the land shipping leaving or entering congressman has to tread many different roads."

It runs from downtown Baltimore through so-called "silk stocking" districts and sections where a third of the registered voters are Negroes.

Eisenhower won it by a 2-1 margin over Adlai Stevenson four years ago. Fallon held on by 7,000 votes and hiked his majority to 27,000 two years ago without the Presidential interference.

His opponent, Kenney, was elected to the House of Delegates in 1954 from the Third Legislative District that overlaps the congressional district. That was the year of McKeldin carried the area in his election to governor.

Friedel is the most typical of a Potomac River, shore rights of candidate "running scared"—he does it all the time. He won the first Democratic nomination from the district in an eight-man primary and the election by 3,000 votes.

His district, which curves around the outside of the city from the southwest to the northeast, also went for Eisenhower. Friedel won by 22,000 in 1956 and two years ago hiked his majority to 46,000.

U.N. Expansion Drive Launched

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A drive to expand the U.N. Security Council and the Economic and Social Council was launched Monday. The Soviet Union quickly served notice it will fight the move unless Red China is seated.

The long-sought increase in size of the 11-nation Security Council and the 18-nation Economic and Social Council is aimed at giving Asian and African countries better representation. Preliminary debates began in the U.N. Assembly special political committee.

The increase requires two-thirds approval in the 99-nation General Assembly, to be followed by formal ratification by two-thirds of the U.N. members, including the five permanent members of the Security Council. These are the United States, Britain, the Soviet Union, France and China.

Thus, if any of the five countries fails to ratify, the move to expand the councils would be halted.

The fisheries official said that since the federal government took over navigation responsibilities for the bay in 1789 the pact is no longer necessary and should not be considered valid unless the clause covering fishing rights is broadened to include the bay.

Byrd said that this was essentially the entire argument of those opposing the compact.

He said that the compact of 1785 covered many matters in addition to fishing rights, including "piracy, tolls, port charges, vessels of certain sizes, navigation of the bay of the two states, vessels of the citizens of each state and other matters."

$7,500 Taken From Church

BALTIMORE (AP)—About $7,500 in Sunday collections was taken from two safes at the Church of the Redeemer, police said Monday.

Officials said about half of the contributions, made at two Reformation Sunday services, were in the form of checks. The burglary was the second in seven months at the Episcopal church.

Albert Hanssen, church treasurer, has asked donors to place stop-payment orders on the checks at their banks.

Dates Listed For Legislative Meetings Here

Dates for pre-General Assembly conferences with Allegany County constituents and organizations were announced yesterday.

State Sen. Charles M. See said the four sessions were set up during a meeting with Del. Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the county's six-member delegation.

The meetings are for individuals and organizations to present their requests for proposed legislation.

Time is given at these hearings for both the proponents and opponents to any new laws, the senator pointed out.

Of importance is the fact that written requests for appearances before the legislators must be made soon by writing Sen. See at his address, 508 Forster Avenue, or Del. Driscoll at 719 Oldtown Road.

Meetings, scheduled at 7:30 p. m. each day, will be held on Monday, November 14; Friday, November 18; Monday, November 21, and Monday, November 28.

All of them will be held in the county commissioners' room on the second floor of the Court House.

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, has already asked for a hearing. Sen. See said he has been contacted verbally by representatives of the Western Maryland Wildlife Federation and the Western Maryland Central Labor Council.

Approves Collection

The annual Salvation Army Christmas season fund collection was approved yesterday by the Mayor and Council under jurisdiction of the Police Department. The collection will take place between November 26 and December 24.

Of all mammals, only elephants occasionally outlive man. The longest-lived elephant was reported to be 85 years old. Many elephants survive for 50 to 75 years.

Marple Opposes Plan For One-Way Street

Lee Marple, local businessman, yesterday protested a plan proposed by seven residents to make Bow Street one-way south into North Centre Street.

The seven had asked for consideration of the plan last week. Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming told the Mayor and Council his department is conducting a study and so far has found as many opposing the plan as are for it.

There are twice as many automobiles in St. Louis as in all of Japan, and New York City and Chicago together have as many cars as France and Switzerland combined.

RETIREES—Willis H. Hann, veteran gas company employee, retires today after over 30 years service with Manufacturers' Light and Heat Company. He is superintendent in charge of seeing that gas flows into the C&A gas company's north Cumberland district.

Damage Suit Involving Trooper Filed

A $75,000 damage suit was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court by a motorist whose auto figured in an accident with a cruiser operated by a state trooper en route to a fatal car crash.

Harold C. Bradley, 146 Spruce Street, Westernport, through his attorneys, Simon F. Reilly and Milton Gerson, has docketed the unusual case against State Trooper Bruce Diehl.

Trooper Diehl resides at Lonaconing and operates from the LaVale Barracks. The accident happened on March 12 at 4:30 p. m. on State Route 135 when Trooper Diehl traveling west on Route 135 on the east limits of Westernport was going to the fatal accident at Barton.

The suit declares that the plaintiff, going east on State Route 135, stopped his car in the highway adjacent to the A&P Supermarket parking lot.

The declaration states that he looked ahead and observing no cars coming in the opposite direction proceeded to make a left turn across the road to get into a parking place on the north side of Route 135.

At the same time, the trooper came along at high rate of speed, the suit said, in a highly congested business area where the limit is 25 miles per hour. The plaintiff did not have a chance to get his car completely across the road.

The cruiser and Bradley's car collided, the suit added, and demolished the vehicle.

The plaintiff maintained he was seriously injured and permanently hurt about his back, neck, shoulder, head and body.

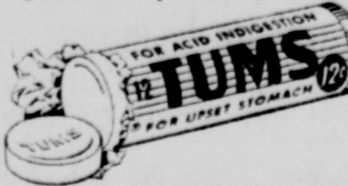

He was confined to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, for one week and was confined to his home for a long period of time. The trooper suffered knee and leg injuries, but was not admitted to the hospital.

He was en route to the one-car mishap one-half mile south of Barton on Route 36 in which a Bruce High School senior, Paul C. Barnard, 19, Westernport, was killed.

Two others were injured seriously, with one of them, Herbert Keller, 19, still a patient in the Western Maryland Hospital for the Chronically Ill at Hagerstown. He is reported to be paralyzed.

The Mayor and Council yesterday asked for an engineering study on a suggestion by Water Commissioner G. Ray Light that when new street lights are installed on North Mechanic Street the sidewalk be cut down to improve traffic conditions.

Light told council work on installing new overhead street lights on North Mechanic will begin in the next two weeks. He suggested that the lights be installed further back on the right side of Mechanic from Bedford to Baltimore Street.

Assistant City Engineer Charles R. Scarlett said that while he did not oppose the move, it did entail other considerations of which council should be aware.

He said a number of overhanging signs are required by ordinance to be a certain distance from curbs and that gas and water valves as well as fireplugs would have to be moved.

As a result of this, council asked that a comprehensive study be made by the Engineering Department. Scarlett said it might be possible to include the project for widening the radius of Baltimore Street at the Mechanic Street intersection which Commissioner John J. Long was authorized to do to submit to bids.

Long said he thought Light's idea to cut down the sidewalk "a wonderful idea." He said it is a step in the right direction and having work done while the street is dug up for light cable installation might be "less costly."

Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming, who has supported such moves in the past, said it emphasizes the need of a master plan which he proposed some time ago. After council had asked for an engineering study, Light said the installation of new lights on Baltimore Street should be completed this week.

New Court Clerk Named

Mrs. Esther Robinson, Frostburg, secretary-clerk of the Allegheny County Board of Alcoholics Beverage License Commissioners since it was formed 13 years ago, has accepted employment in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court.

Mrs. Robinson will assume her new duties today. She was appointed to the post as general office clerk by Boden.

Taking her place as secretary-clerk of the liquor board will be Mrs. Shirley Nolan of Mt. Savage. Mrs. Nolan has worked part-time in the county tax collector's office at the Court House and more recently as a member of the Democratic County election headquarters at the Algonquin Hotel.

The position in the clerk of court's office became vacant when W. Wilson Hamilton, who had been employed at the Court House for some years, resigned to accept employment at Allegheny Ballistics Laboratory.

RETIREES—Willis H. Hahn, veteran gas company employee, retires today after over 30 years service with Manufacturers' Light and Heat Company. He is superintendent in charge of seeing that gas flows into the C&A gas company's north Cumberland district.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Chap Hands! Here Comes Winter!

Winter starts soonest where gloves begin . . . right at the raw wrist right down to the cracking finger-edges. Gloves, in fact, might postpone autumn chapping more effectively if more women would wear them more often, outdoors and in. Exposure to air and wind seems to speed the coarsening of hands already affected by soaps and detergents and long immersion in water.

One recent medical experiment among dermatologists puts the lion's share of blame for chapped hands upon humidity . . . or, rather, the lack of it in dry-heated homes, offices and factories. It's not oil we lose, say these doctors, it's natural water content in the skin. The water content in the skin is protected from evaporation by a barrier of oil. Once it evaporates, hands dry up quickly. Oiling the hands, then, may make the barrier more efficient . . . and may ease the discomfort of chapping . . . but only more humid air will replace the moisture in tortured hands, to make them smooth again and free of hairline splits and deep cuts.

It's a suggestion worth trying—increasing moisture content in the air in which you live and work, perhaps by the installation of a humidifier of some sort. Even broad pans of water set about the house can effect higher humidity to a limited degree.

Meanwhile, protection BEFORE chapping and pampering AFTER chapping are the cases in point. Gloves and oily creams or lotions give the greatest relief. Start using them early, before the calendar calls winter. Gloves when you sleep, steeping your hands in healing cream, are absolutely sensible. A lather of lotion for hands BEFORE they tackle a tower of dishes is worth twice as much as an after-creaming. And an after-creaming is a thousand times better than none.

One of the greatest "gloves" of them all, albeit invisible, is a good DRYING, once hands are wet. So many women consider a swipe at the apron sufficient. But to bury the hands in a thick thirsty towel or to smother them in a strong hot air stream is so much more protective. Make sure you rinse your hands completely, too, in plain water. Wash away all the suds and bubbles. Even after you remove your rubber or plastic gloves, don't risk leaving a film of soap to fight later.

To Mark Anniversary

The 22nd anniversary and reunion of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Cresaptown Firemen will be held November 3 at the fire hall. It will begin with a covered dish supper at 7 o'clock, to which all former members are invited.

Besides the history of the organization, the program also includes talks by Mrs. Ruth Forward, Bowley's Quarters, state president; Miss Bessie Marshall, Reisterstown, hospitalization chairman; and Mrs. Nancy Growden, Bedford Road, president of the Allegany-Garrett County Auxiliary. There will be brief remarks by other county officers. Mrs. Isabelle Anderson will give the history of the group.

A social hour will conclude the evening. The officers are in charge of arrangements. They are Mrs. Marie Cosner, president; Mrs. Margaret Shepherd, vice president; Mrs. Anderson, secretary; Mrs. Edna Hounshell, treasurer; and Mrs. Nellie McKenzie, chaplain.

Prizes Awarded For Costumes

The Fairview Avenue Methodist Sunday school held its annual mummerys parade and party Friday evening. Ralph Wilson won the grand prize for costumed marchers. Paul Wilson received the award for the most original. Judy Jones, the prettiest; Betty Dawson, the ugliest; Jeannine Rice, the funniest, and Craig Keith, youngest.

Judges were Mrs. Dorothy Bayer, Mrs. Mable Watkins, and Mrs. Richard Mawhinney.

Entertainment consisted of cartoons, shown by Robert Webster. Refreshments were served. Sixty attended.

Salvation Army Gets 300 Dolls, Needs Dressers

A supply of 300 baby dolls for distribution at Christmas has been received by the Salvation Army here, according to Captain Fred Overton, commanding officer.

Ladies organizations which would like to dress these dolls as a Christmas project are requested to notify Captain Overton at the Citadel, PA 4-0860. The number of dolls each organization wants will be delivered by the Salvation Army. Captain Overton hopes to receive all organizational offers of help on this project on or before November 10.

Students To Attend AAUW Sponsored Tour

Through the support of the Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women, the Maryland State Division, AAUW, is continuing the annual fall United Nations tour for senior high school students. Almost a double number of requests were made for the tour, which will be November 4. Mrs. May Thomas, local president, said last evening that Miss Leba Kaplan, Baltimore chairman, with the help of the Pennsylvania Railroad will take at least 700 students this year.

The group will tour the UN building and attend an assembly meeting, if possible. They will take a bus trip around New York City and have dinner in Manhattan before returning home the same night. Mrs. Thomas said. This all day tour is held Friday, she pointed out, which because of the late return is the only opportunity for many students, especially those outside the metropolitan areas, to visit the headquarters of the world organization.

Students from Allegany High School will leave here Thursday, spend the night in Baltimore and join the tour Friday morning. They are Ann Herboldsheimer, Carole Ann Kamp, Jane Farrell, Dixie Kuhn, Elaine Solomon, Mary Lou Fridinger, Linda Gibbs, Jane Keefe, and Ann Brinsmade. Mrs. Robert Herboldsheimer will accompany the group as the chaperone. Mrs. Thomas reports over 20 will attend from Southern and Northern High, Garrett County.

The branch board meeting will be held Friday at the home of Mrs. Thomas, 520 Holland Street. The general meeting will be November 9 at the Potomac Edison home service room, when Mrs. Robert Tate will demonstrate different Christmas and Thanksgiving recipes.

Plan Supper

The Navy Mothers Club formulated plans for a public supper at the meeting Friday evening, conducted by Mrs. Lucille Bartlett, at the American Legion home. Committee reports were given.

The ham supper will be held November 3 from 5 until 7 at the legion home. The public is invited.

Mrs. Edna Doman, Locust Grove, is a patient in Sacred Heart Hospital.

Children Collect $80 For UNICEF

Residents of the East Side donated a total of $80 to UNICEF when children and youth of Melvin Methodist Church called at their homes Friday evening.

Following the drive, a Halloween party was held in the church recreation hall sponsored by the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Prizes for best costumes were won by the following: ugliest costume, Kenneth McFarland; funniest, James Plummer; prettiest, Betty Hedrick, and most original, Arnold Petenbrink, who was dressed as "Bat Masterdon." The judges were Clarence Andrews, Raymond May and Charles Sturtz.

Eugene Streett led the group singing and showed movies. Refreshments were served by the woman's society. Mrs. Ronald Brannon, secretary of children's work, was in charge of arrangements.

Be sure to refrigerate citrus juice in a tightly closed container to conserve vitamin C (ascorbic acid).

There are about 360 islands in the group known as the Bermudas.

Stops Constipation Due to "Aging Colon"

New laxative discovery re-creates 3 essentials for normal regularity.

As you grow older, the internal muscles of your colon wall also age, lose the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents become so dry and shrunken that they fail to stimulate the urge to purge. Relief, doctors say, lies in a new laxative principle. Old-style bulks and moisteners may create gas, take 3 or 4 days for relief. Old-style salts and drugs cramp and gripe the entire system. Of all laxatives, only new COLONOID gives you its special 3-way relief that works only on the lower colon (area of constipation).

(1) COLONOID moisturizes dry, hardened waste for easy passage without pain or strain. (2) COLONOID's unequalled rebulking action helps restore flabby colon muscles. (3) And COLONOID acts gently, on the nerve reflexes that stimulate the vital "mass movement" of your lower colon. COLONOID relieves even chronic constipation overnight, is so gentle it was hospital proved safe even for expectant mothers. A great many safety plays are designed to avoid a finesse. Today's hand, however, presents a rather different twist. Declarer finds himself in a position to take an early finesse in a side suit for the purpose of determining whether he can afford to make a safety play in trumps. But enough of these abstractions. Let us get down to cases.

South opened with one heart and North, holding the equivalent of an opening bid with protection in four suits, preferred a descriptive response of two no trump to a temporizing bid of two clubs. After himself sharply as to partner's technique, insisting that he should have employed the textbook safety play by leading the ace of hearts first. Such play limits the loss of one trick even if the outstanding trumps are in one hand. The South had been guilty of an error, North's indictment was not properly framed. Declarer should first have tried the club finesse. If it should lose, then declarer must go all out to pick up the heart suit and the play of the king of hearts first would be indicated. But if the club finesse wins, as it would have in this case, then declarer must go all out to pick up the heart suit and the play of the king of hearts first would be indicated. But if the club finesse wins, as it would have in this case, then declarer must go all out to pick up the heart suit and the play of the king of hearts first would be indicated. But if the club finesse wins, as it would have in this case, then declarer must go all out to pick up the heart suit and the play of the king of hearts first would be indicated.

The proper play at trick two, therefore, was a low club from dummy.

Also new here is the soil cement base used for both of the new streets.

Couple Released After Questioning

A young couple from Pennsylvania who came to Cumberland last week to get married was released by City Police yesterday after having been taken into custody Saturday night.

Police said the two were arrested after local authorities received a complaint they had a gun in their possession.

Lt. Donald Smith said the couple was parked in a car in the Shade Lane area. A search was made of the vehicle but no gun was found.

The girl, who gave her age as 16, was turned over to her parents yesterday. The youth was released later in the day.

Police said the couple apparently had been living in the car during their stay here.

Neely Plays

ing included the following with Skeen "Voice 1" and Barron "Voice 2," according to Neely.

Voice 1: "One more question. If we got this thing resolved, I may be wrong. I may be wrong as I can be but I think I have a whole lot to offer. And if I have it to offer, why, what do you have to offer?"

Voice 2: "Well I told you what I have got to offer. If we pitch in together and if we make the grade. We go back to our original understanding. It still stands. And that was about $65,000. That was what we talked about."

"Of course, that was just an amount we picked out of thin air but I'm willing just to talk cold turkey along this line if we can get the governorship in a mutual endeavor. Now we agreed we couldn't extend it beyond the two of us. That is a matter strictly between us."

"Now whatever we want to do with our buddies, why, we'll do. If you want to handle the personal end of it or whatever you want, I'll let you take care of it, any way you want to. If we make it together, share and share alike."

"The two of us together — no more no less. I think if we pull this off—we have to pull it off. If we do it, we share and share alike."

Discuss Campaign

That portion of the transcript followed a long discussion in which "Voice 1" and "Voice 2" discussed the pre-campaign situation. It was followed almost immediately by introduction of a third voice, meant to be Skeen's wife entering the house.

Neely told newsmen he had no immediate plans for further use of the tape and did "not plan to emphasize it" in the last week of campaigning. He also said he had "never indulged in any smear campaign."

Barron announced about 3 p. m. that he would meet with newsmen in a hotel suite across town, and about 25 persons had gathered when he arrived promptly at 4 p. m.

He read a prepared statement and answered only two questions before saying further comment would come at his scheduled television debate with Neely Friday night.

In answer to questions, he said he raised the ante from $300,000 against Skeen to $400,000 because "I think Mr. Neely has been more malicious," and that the Neely suit would definitely not be settled out of court.

In his prepared statement, Barron said he had been forced to go to the courts to be vindicated against Skeen, "just as the people vindicated me at the polls in the primary."

"Mr. Neely left me no choice. In his desperation to smear me and the Democratic party, he repeated the same malicious falsehoods against which I already have waged one successful legal action."

"There is nothing new in anything that Mr. Neely presented today. It is silly for him to talk about 'releasing' anything. The contents of the alleged tape and the affidavit were released last spring and printed on the front page of The Charleston Gazette and in other newspapers."

"Mr. Neely has no program; he has no issues; and he has had very little experience in government. He is simply trying to confuse the voters in this last week before the election."

"My opponent is trying to become governor by smearing me," Barron said. "I will not stoop to use the same tactics, but instead will permit a court of law to decide who is right."

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My elderly uncle has been confined to a mental institution for several years. He's harmless, quiet, and never bothers anyone.

Every Thanksgiving I have a big family dinner and I always invite this uncle as he is released on holidays. His clothes don't fit very well and he looks out of place with his institutional-type haircut, but he's mannerly and pleasant. Sometimes he becomes a little restless when there's a lot of conversation around him, and he moves from chair to chair.

My husband told me last night I should not invite my uncle this year because his "queer ways" make him uncomfortable. He says I don't owe this uncle anything, and I DO owe HIM the courtesy of selecting Thanksgiving dinner guests. Who is right?

DEAR AUSTIN: Your uncle probably looks forward to this dinner as one of the highlights of his lonesome, wretched existence. It would be unpeppery cruel to exclude him. He's not just an ordinary guest. There are many aspects of this situation that make him a very special guest, indeed. Keep inviting him. Honey, and tell your husband if he becomes TOO uncomfortable, he can take himself for a walk around the block.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been going with Wilfred for nine years. I bought a wedding dress when he first asked me to marry him, back in 1951. It was a size 10. Now I'm a size 14 and I can't get into the dress to save my neck. The seams can't be let out any more, either. I looked.

The trouble is not with us, Ann, it's our folks. I am 34 and Wilfred is 36. Whenever we set a date something happens, like his mother has had three heart attacks, and my dad has had asthma troubles. Two years ago his folks had to borrow $2,000 from him to save their home. That was the money we were going to get married on.

Last June everything was set and my mother came to me with tears in her eyes. She begged me to wait until my older sister gets a man. She is 38 and nothing is in sight. What do you suggest?

DEAR GERT: A double set of apron strings is strangling your hopes for a life together.

You and your boyfriend (36—this is a boy?) should set a date now, and get married come heart-attack, asthma, mortgages or unmarried sister. If you wait until everything is just right with both your families, someone will have to wheel you down the wedding aisle.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a boy 16 with a big problem. I can't get a girl to go out with me twice. When I ask for a second date they always have some flimsy excuse. I can't understand this because when we're out on the first date they seem to have a lovely time. They always thank me for the pleasant evening and say it was fun.

I DO believe in holding hands and a kiss on the first date. Sometimes I get a No and sometimes a Yes. The girls I take out are all 15 and come from good families. Can you tell me why I'm having this problem?

Water Use Rises

Water consumption averaged 14,667,000 gallons daily last week, up from the 13,851,000 gallon average a year ago. Lake Gordon was three feet, three inches below the spillway Sunday and Lake Koon was down eight feet, three inches. Ray Nixon, acting superintendent of the filter plant, reported to the Mayor and Council yesterday.

LaVale Resident Gets Home Permit

Mrs. William H. Steele, Arlington Avenue, LaVale, has been issued a permit to build a stone and brick dwelling at a cost of about $9,000.

James G. Stevenson, clerk of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, who issued the permit, said the dwelling will have a concrete block foundation and asphalt shingle roof as well as a partial cellar.

Parking Receipts

Parking meter receipts for the week ending October 23 totaled $806.90, down two cents from the previous week, the Mayor and Council was told yesterday.

Miller Will Attend Training Institute

The University of Maryland will hold its 12th annual Institute for Water and Waste Treatment Plant Operators at College Park November 9-11.

William F. Miller, acting foreman of the sewage treatment plant, will represent the City of Cumberland at the meeting, according to Street Commissioner John J. Long.

The institute is designed to help managers operate their plants better, safer and more economically.

Jackson To Talk At Lions Meeting

J. Goodloe Jackson, this city, will speak on Lionism when members of the LaVale Lions Club meet this evening at 6:30 in the fire hall in that community.

During a recent meeting of the Lions Foundation, Harry Larrick was elected president; Mrs. David Whitworth, vice president; Joseph Dorsey, secretary, and Edward Miller, treasurer.

The purchase of a triangular plot across Braddock Run from the LaVale ice skating rink area was approved and the next phase of work, repairs and improvements to the rink was discussed. Also discussed was the possibility of a community-wide fund drive for the park.

Wilson To Address Optimist Club

William L. Wilson, local attorney, will be the guest speaker tomorrow at the weekly meeting of the Cumberland Optimist Club at 6:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Mr. Wilson will discuss the plan on education favored by the Warfield Commission of which he was a member.

Street Projects Near Completion

Work on the construction of Forster and Pearee avenues is nearing completion.

A 2½ inch blacktop wearing course has been applied to both streets by the Cumberland Contracting Company. The only remaining item is the installation of a rolled curb on Forster Avenue.

It will be the second street to use a rolled or rebut "blacktop" curb. The system was first used here this year on Brown Avenue.

Also new here is the soil cement base used for both of the new streets.

He delivered numerous lectures at state and regional meetings of assessors and tax officials.

Senior Church Warden

An Episcopalian, he was a life member of Emmanuel Episcopal Church and served as senior warden of the church.

Mr. Nicholson started his career here as a young reporter on the Cumberland Daily News, but his interest in politics as well as civic affairs led him to seek a career in public life.

Mr. Nicholson was a graduate of the Allegany County Academy, and attended Western Maryland College and the West Virginia University.

He was always interested in sports and at one time coached basketball at the old Allegany County High School on Greene Street.

He played baseball and softball with local teams and also played basketball with YMCA teams and for a long period of time coached the YMCA basketball team, during the days of the City Basketball League.

Mr. Nicholson played football while a student at Western Maryland College.

Couple Released After Questioning

A young couple from Pennsylvania who came to Cumberland last week to get married was released by City Police yesterday after having been taken into custody Saturday night.

Police said the two were arrested after local authorities received a complaint they had a gun in their possession.

Lt. Donald Smith said the couple was parked in a car in the Shade's Lane area. A search was made of the vehicle but no gun was found.

The girl, who gave her age as 16, was turned over to her parents yesterday. The youth was released later in the day.

Police said the couple apparently had been living in the car during their stay here.

ing included the following with Skeen "Voice 1" and Barron "Voice 2," according to Neely.

Voice 1: "One more question. If we got this thing resolved, I may be wrong. I may be wrong as I can be but I think I have a whole lot to offer. And if I have to offer, why, what do you have to offer?"

Voice 2: "Well I told you what I have got to offer. If we pitch in together and if we make the grade. We go back to our original understanding. It still stands. And that was about $65,000. That was what we talked about."

"Of course, that was just an amount we picked out of thin air but I'm willing just to talk cold turkey along this line if we can get the governorship in a mutual endeavor. Now we agreed we couldn't extend it beyond the two of us. That is a matter strictly between us."

"Now whatever we want to do with our buddies, why, we'll do it. If you want to handle the personal end of it or whatever you want, I'll let you take care of it, any way you want to. If we make it together, share and share alike."

"The two of us together — no more no less. I think if we pull this off—we have to pull it off. If we do it, we share and share alike."

Discuss Campaign

That portion of the transcript followed a long discussion in which "Voice 1" and "Voice 2" discussed the pre-campaign situation. It was followed almost immediately by introduction of a third voice, meant to be Skeen's wife entering the house.

Neely told newsmen he had no immediate plans for further use of the tape and did "not plan to emphasize it" in the last week of campaigning. He also said he had "never indulged in any smear campaign."

Barron announced about 3 p.m. that he would meet with newsmen in a hotel suite across town, and about 25 persons had gathered when he arrived promptly at 4 p.m.

He read a prepared statement and answered only two questions before saying further comment would come at his scheduled television debate with Neely Friday night.

In answer to questions, he said he raised the ante from $300,000 against Skeen to $400,000 because "I think Mr. Neely has been more malicious," and that the Neely suit would definitely not be settled out of court.

In his prepared statement, Barron said he had been forced to go to the courts to be vindicated against Skeen, "just as the people vindicated me at the polls in the primary."

"Mr. Neely left me no choice. In his desperation to smear me and the Democratic party, he repeated the same malicious falsehoods against which I already have waged one successful legal action."

"There is nothing new in anything that Mr. Neely presented today. It is silly for him to talk about 'releasing' anything. The contents of the alleged tape and the affidavit were released last spring and printed on the front page of The Charleston Gazette and in other newspapers."

"Mr. Neely has no program; he has no issues; and he has had very little experience in government. He is simply trying to confuse the voters in this last week before the election."

"My opponent is trying to become governor by smearing me," Barron said. "I will not stoop to use the same tactics, but instead will permit a court of law to decide who is right."

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My elderly uncle has been confined to a mental institution for several years. He's harmless, quiet, and never bothers anyone.

Every Thanksgiving I have a big family dinner and I always invite this uncle as he is released on holidays. His clothes don't fit very well and he looks out of place with his institutional-type haircut, but he's mannerly and pleasant. Sometimes he becomes a little restless when there's a lot of conversation around him, and he moves from chair to chair.

My husband told me last night I should not invite my uncle this year because his "queer ways" make him uncomfortable. He says I don't owe this uncle anything, and I DO owe HIM the courtesy of selecting Thanksgiving dinner guests. Who is right?

DEAR AUSTIN: Your uncle probably looks forward to this dinner as one of the highlights of his lonesome, wretched existence. It would be unspeakably cruel to exclude him. He's not just an ordinary guest. There are many aspects of this situation that make him a very special guest, indeed. Keep inviting him. Honey, and tell your husband if he becomes TOO uncomfortable, he can take himself for a walk around the block.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been going with Wilfred for nine years. I bought a wedding dress when he first asked me to marry him, back in 1951. It was a size 10. Now I'm a size 14 and I can't get into the dress to save my neck. The seams can't be let out any more, either. I looked.

The trouble is not with us, Ann. It's our folks. I am 34 and Wilfred is 36. Whenever we set a date something happens, like his mother has had three heart attacks, and my dad has had asthma troubles. Two years ago his folks had to borrow $2,000 from him to save their home. That was the money we were going to get married on.

Last June everything was set, and my mother came to me with tears in her eyes. She begged me to wait until my older sister gets a man. She is 38 and nothing is in sight. What do you suggest?

DEAR GERT: A double set of apron strings is strangling your hopes for a life together.

You and your boyfriend (36—this is a boy?) should set a date now, and get married come heart-attack, asthma, mortgages or unmarried sister. If you wait until everything is just right with both your families, someone will have to wheel you down the wedding aisle.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a boy 16 with a big problem. I can't get a girl to go out with me twice. When I ask for a second date they always have some flimsy excuse. I can't understand this because when we're out on the first date they seem to have a lovely time. They always thank me for the pleasant evening and say it was fun.

I DO believe in holding hands and a kiss on the first date. Sometimes I get a No and sometimes a Yes. The girls I take out are all 15 and come from good families. Can you tell me why I'm having this problem?

Water Use Rises

Water consumption averaged 14,667,000 gallons daily last week, up from the 13,851,000 gallon average a year ago. Lake Gordon was three feet, three inches below the spillway Sunday and Lake Koon was down eight feet, three inches. Ray Nixon, acting superintendent of the filter plant, reported to the Mayor and Council yesterday.

Foley's Charges Distort Record

In this space yesterday, The Cumberland News pointed out that Rep. John R. Foley's allegations about Del. Charles McC. Mathias' voting record have been somewhat misleading. We showed, for example, that four-fifths of the measures on which Mr. Mathias is not recorded as voting were passed without a single dissenting vote, and that nearly all the others had only slight opposition.

Here's another lesson in what can be done with figures, if you select them carefully enough: Last June, and several times since, Rep. Foley declared that during the 1959 General Assembly session, Mr. Mathias failed to vote on Allegany County bills on 22 occasions. The Journal of Proceedings of the House of Delegates of Maryland is, substantially, in agreement. But what does it mean?

For one thing, a bill comes up for a vote several times during the course of its passage, and voting generally is recorded only on final action of the House. When a delegate has voted on a purely local bill and knows that it has no opposition, he may properly forget about it. The House, toward the end of its session, may pass well over a hundred bills in a single day. Few members concern themselves overmuch with purely local matters when the House is merely giving formal assent to its own previous actions.

On five of the Allegany County bills listed by Mr. Foley, Mr. Mathias did vote, though he is not recorded as voting on the dates listed by Mr. Foley. In some of these cases, Mr. Mathias voted when a bill was at a more important stage than on the date when his vote is not recorded. On 14 of the 22 occasions listed by Mr. Foley, the vote was unanimous. On four other occasions, Allegany County's own delegates were divided. Another thing to note here is that Mr. Foley says nothing about the 16 Allegany County bills that the Journal shows Mr. Mathias did vote on. Some were more important than those he is accused of neglecting. For example, one of the local bills on which Mr. Mathias is not recorded is a measure by which the State of Maryland, in its power and majesty, orders Allegany County to blacktop a school playground. Apparently our delegates thought it worth their while, but of what possible concern is this to a delegate sent to Annapolis primarily to represent the interests of another county.

From this discussion, and from the preceding one, it should be rather clear that Mr. Foley has taken the record out of context to create a totally false impression of Mr. Mathias' service in the House.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Embargo

The Castro government apparently anticipated the American embargo because of its enormous purchases of supplies preceding the embargo. An example is that between eight and ten carloads of specialized chemicals used as catalysts in oil refining were purchased in this country and were shipped to Cuba prior to the embargo. I understand that without these particular chemicals, the seized American oil refineries could not function. It may be that Castro's government might have purchased these catalysts elsewhere, but I am informed that that would be difficult. The oil plants, I am told, will be operable for between nine months and a year now, despite the American embargo which was issued too late. Why did the State Department permit these heavy chemicals to be shipped to Cuba?

The State Department policy toward Cuba is not understandable except that its officers are so fearful of the prospect of a war with Soviet Russia that they are paralyzed. All that Khrushchev needs to do is bang his shoe on a table, and the deskmen become petrified. While they were engaged in studying the situation, in making up their minds whether Fidel Castro is or is not a Communist, whether the United States should or should not protect American life and property in Cuba, that island, 90 miles off the coast of Florida, became a satellite of Soviet Russia, dispossessed not only Americans but Cubans from their businesses and homes and established a first-stage People's Republic.

While all this was happening, the United States looked on and said not a word and did not a thing. Characteristically, the Cubans did not seize Canadian banks and enterprises, just as Red China did not seize Hongkong. The reason: It is always necessary, in the first stages of a People's Republic, to have an outlet to the capitalist world. The Canadians are therefore reaping the benefits of our discomfiture and whereas we establish an embargo on goods shipped to Cuba, there is no reason why the Cubans cannot purchase these same American goods in Canada or in Mexico.

In fact, Cuban deposits once held in the United States, have been removed to Canada and to some European countries. Canada is becoming a sort of Switzerland on the American continent in this respect.

Senator John F. Kennedy has been most criticized for his strong statements with regard to Cuba. In this respect, he has been on the right side throughout. He has been speaking in the voice of American history and is much closer to the spirit of Theodore Roosevelt than Franklin D. Roosevelt. He is closer to the nationalistic attitude of the Republican Party than to the internationalism of the Eisenhower Administration.

A nation that lives in fear of its enemy will be defeated by that enemy diplomatically as well as militarily, because a nation which possesses power and does not know when to use it becomes ridiculous in the eyes of those who fear only power. Already this has become evident in Panama, Venezuela, Mexico and Brazil. The United States possesses the power but seems to be like an elephant that fears a mouse.

For some reason, the United States cannot move quickly. On October 26, 1960, it is officially announced that we shall defend Guantanamo. Why wait two years to do that? It should have been done at the instant that Guantanamo was threatened. When the Castro gang threatened to cut off the water of Guantanamo, the United States should have taken possession of that water supply and protected it. Instead, we shipped water to Guantanamo. This sort of attitude is self-defeating. The Administration was forced by the excitement over Cuba during a Presidential campaign to take a few forceful steps concerning Cuba.

The Cuban situation will undoubtedly come to a head before long by the United States or the Organization of American States moving into Cuba to protect the Cuban people from conquest by Soviet Russia. As this is now unavoidable, the sooner it happens, the better.

How To Make Mountains

Prestige Debate Raises Moral, Political Questions

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON
Most curious moral and political questions are raised by the Nixon-Kennedy dispute about American prestige in the world, which has now been joined by President Eisenhower.

These questions were especially vividly posed by a recent issue of a great national newspaper. It contained both the text of the President's Philadelphia speech on Friday, and the text of the most recently unearthed confidential survey of the prestige problem by the U. S. Information Agency.

Here was the President, all bland reassurance, telling his hearers that all the kings and queens and prime ministers who have streamed through the White House "had no doubts about U. S. prestige." He did not say whether he meant to include Cuba's prime minister, Fidel Castro, for example; but he added with dignified indignation:

"In any case, whatever was America's image abroad at the beginning of this political campaign, it tends to be blurred today. This is because of unwarranted disparagement of our moral, military and political power."

"But here too, on an almost-adjointing newspaper page, was an official report from the very men the President himself had charged with responsibility for the "American image," as he likes to call it. Their report, based on extensive soundings in Western Europe, bore the recent date of Oct. 10. And these men were saying that our most valued allies now believe the United States has fallen behind the Soviet Union in space, in scientific capability, in military power, and even in future economic potential.

"Confidence in U. S. capacity for world leadership (also appears) less than satisfactory," the report glumly summed up.

It is hard to remember a comparable spectacle. There has been nothing quite like this superb denial, by the President himself, of the plain truths so recently reported by his own official subordinates. Or perhaps there has been. For one recalls Stanley Baldwin shoving into his desk drawer, as things of no account, the British intelligence reports on Hitler's rearmament.

The moral question thus raised is whether the President, like Baldwin, is consciously deceiving the nation—an act that was held to be a capital crime in ancient Athens. The answer is surely in the negative, for no one can question Dwight D. Eisenhower's essential morality.

As far as he is concerned the solution of the riddle seems to lie in the Byzantine atmosphere of the Eisenhower White House. Harsh realities do not easily penetrate. Thus the President, with darker and darker clouds rising on every horizon, keeps happily assuring his visitors that "people-to-people relations" are what really matter, and delightedly recalling the hundreds of thousands who cheered him in India and Brazil.

But this issue to the moral question hardly extends to Vice-President Nixon. He chose to say it was downgrading America to talk about our declining prestige, long after the U. S. I. A. had made its main, notoriously grim but as yet concealed report to the National Security Council, of which Nixon is a member. Allowances must be made for the President, but explanations are in order from the President's far younger and far tougher intended heir.

Meanwhile, there is the political question, about whether this business of prestige really matters very much. Superficially it sounds like adman's stuff, especially when you start talking about it in such pure Madison Ave. terms as the "American image."

In reality, however, prestige matters greatly, because it is like a quotation on the international political market, and a quotation directly based, furthermore, on the market's shrewd estimate of each nation's power and leadership. A nation with little power but great leadership may have considerable prestige, as Israel does today. A nation with established power and phony leadership may retain prestige, as England did in the early 'thirties. But for the highest quotation on the international market, a nation needs the wisest leadership and the maximum of power together.

At the present moment, moreover, the way the stock of America is quoted on the market is of truly desperate importance, since a horde of nations and old nations in flux are now making their investment choices. Guinea, Ghana, Cuba and too many others have already concluded that America and the West are poorer investments than the Soviet Union. If the countless other new and changing nations make the same choice as these, the situation will be uncontrollable. That is the heart of the matter.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

UNPREDICTABLE — As the campaign enters the stretch drive it is still one of the tightest, most unpredictable presidential contests of the century.

News men who have traveled with both presidential candidates have been unable to detect anything that would lead them to be reasonably sure as to which one will capture the White House.

The campaign is drawing to a close with the same imponderables that were in evidence when it started. One revolves around the impact that Sen. John F. Kennedy's Catholic religious beliefs will have on the voting public. The other concerns a long-felt public uneasiness about the integrity and sincerity of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Most public opinion polls show a greater percentage of undecided voters than in previous political campaigns. This group is estimated between 20 and 30 per cent of those eligible to vote. Obviously, if sentiment in this group crystallizes for either man, he will be the winner.

During much of the campaign, Kennedy has succeeded in fighting the religious issue to a standstill, at least so far as public expressed opposition is concerned. It is doubtful, however, that Kennedy's frontal assault on this issue has changed many of the minds that were made up against voting for a Catholic for president.

Nixon, on the other hand, has had no marked success in projecting a "new image" of himself, either during the campaign or in the widely televised debates with Kennedy. He has been criticized for being too "emotional" in his appeal for votes. He has also been criticized by his own adherents for not hitting harder at his Democratic rival.

Lacking a crystal ball, one can only vote his convictions and save money by not betting either way.

Artificial Heart Could Replace Worn Organ

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Will any of us live to see the day when surgeons will be able to replace an irreparably sick heart with a mechanical facsimile? Yes, in my opinion, considering the progress made along this line by the department of Artificial organs at the Cleveland Clinic Foundation.

A small artificial heart was inserted into the chest of a dog as its own heart was removed, and the animal lived five hours. During this time, the dog's circulation, blood pressure, and breathing were normal. The reflexes were maintained, indicating that the brain was getting enough blood.

The Cleveland team — Dr. Charles S. Houston, Dr. Tetsuzo Akutsu, and Dr. Willem J. Kolff — have built two mechanical hearts that mimic the human ticker. The second has advantages over the first, even though it was less successful in its first trial run.

It is a roller type pump with two valves resembling those of nature in design and action. The machine is streamlined to fit into the chest, where it is connected to the appropriate blood vessels.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

It was in September, just after the opening of the women's college that ornaments the town of Saratoga. As usual, a good many of the girls visited the bank to open checking accounts, writes Frank Sullivan. One of them was a naive freshman. She wanted to open an account very badly.

"How much do you wish to deposit in the account?" asked an official of the bank.

The maid looked at him in stary innocence.

"Oh, I don't want to 'deposit' anything," she said. "I just want to open an account."

Limerick from Dr. Anthony Collum:

There's a story they tell about Rona

Going 'round in a black silk kimona.
Don't think for a minute
There's anything in it—
That is, anything much besides Rona.

Getting Truth Is Harder Than Ever In Washington During Election Year

By Drew Pearson

POLITICAL STATEMENT — When the Justice Department, headed by Nixon's close friend, Attorney General William Rogers, went out of its way to issue a denial that the settlement of an antitrust suit against the Hughes Tool Co. was influenced by the Hughes loan to Nixon, the denial stated that the suit was brought after the Hughes loan was made.

FACT—It is quite true that the antitrust suit was brought after the Hughes loan to the Nixon family, but the loan was highly secret, known to very few people, and an attorney working at a low level in the Justice Department would know nothing about it. The significant development was that when the antitrust suit got to a high level it came before Victor Hansen, a Southern Californian appointed Assistant Attorney General on Nixon's recommendation. At this point it was settled without going to trial, by a consent decree.

I had previously stated that there was no evidence that the Hughes loan was connected with any government favors given Hughes, and though Hansen was very close to Nixon, this is still true. But the reason for conflict-of-interest laws is because of this very fact—namely, that it is difficult, if not impossible, to prove favoritism in high places. For that explicit reason, both the law and good ethics require that high government officials and those close to them have no financial interest in and accept no pecuniary favors from companies with problems before the government.

The Hughes Tool Company and Trans-World Airlines, both important concerns—and this column has paid tribute to TWA's efficient, operation—must necessarily have all sorts of problems before government agencies. They couldn't operate otherwise.

CORRECTION — This column was in error in reporting that the State Department "was sitting on a letter" to Senator Keating of New York explaining why the UN General Assembly was not postponed this election year as it has been in other Presidential years. On the contrary, the letter was released by Keating on or about October 8. The facts in the letter, however, remain the same, namely that the State Department saw "very definite advantages" in going ahead with the UN session in September, instead of after the November election, as in 1952 and 1956 elections. In these years the UN sessions were postponed in order to keep American foreign policy out of politics. This year both Nixon and Kennedy for a time were running against Khrushchev thanks to the UN session.

CAPTAIN EDDIE RICKENBACKER, CHAIRMAN, EASTERN AIRLINES—Robert J. Wilson of the "Restaurant Voters for Nixon" reports in a newsletter: "I left Charlotte at 9:15 p. m. on October 3rd for Columbia, S. C. on a special Eastern Airlines plane. Eastern Airlines had canceled their regular flight because of bad weather, but when I told them I had a breakfast appointment in Columbia to stir enthusiasm for the Nixon-Lodge ticket, they flew me out (I was the only passenger) at no extra fare. Eastern Airlines seemed interested in the Nixon-Lodge ticket and I experienced the unusual experience of having an airplane to myself." Undoubtedly, you didn't know about this, Captain, but contributions by corporations to a political campaign are in violation of the Corrupt Practices Act. . . .

JOE CAPSIN, HONOLULU—I can sometimes solve mysteries around Washington but I can't solve the mystery of how the photograph of Ike inscribed "For Elizabeth P. Betty Farrington, widow of the much-loved late Hawaiian delegate to the House of Representatives, and herself a delegate, was much respected in Washington and rated high at the White House. This is a mystery you Hawaiians will have to solve yourselves. . . .

Wonderland

By Leslie Gould

This is an Alice in Wonderland world — economically speaking, that is.

To wit:
The United States dollar is the only major currency that has a fixed gold value—$35 an ounce.

The Russian ruble has no fixed value in gold, or in anything for that matter. It is worthless outside the Iron Curtain. The official rate is four rubles to the dollar, for tourists to Russia ten to the dollar, in the black market inside Russia 25 to the dollar and outside Russia 30 to 40 to the dollar.

The British pound has no fixed rate to gold, only what the free market says. The same for all other major currencies.

So, what do you hear all around Europe? It's time the U. S. Treasury paid more for gold—$50 to $70 an ounce against the present $35 price.

And who would benefit by this? Russia, for one, with an annual gold production, mined by slave labor, of around $700 million a year. Also, South Africa.

Next to these, the speculators, who are currently having a field day in the London free gold market bidding the price up to as high as $41 an ounce, with daily fluctuations of $2 or $3 an ounce. The speculators include quite a few well placed Americans, using the secrecy of the Swiss and Canadian banks to conceal their identities.

To speculate in gold, all a person needs to put up to buy $1 million worth is $30,000—a "margin" of 3 per cent, against 70 per cent for stocks. To the $30,000 "margin," a gold speculator must add tax deductible costs of $1,250 for storage and $53,350 a year interest at 5½ per cent. For every dollar rise in the price of gold, the speculator makes more than $25,000—nearly 100 per cent on the $30,000 put up as margin.

The fact that this speculation is helping to undermine confidence in the dollar is outweighed by this "golden" opportunity to make a few quick bucks.

If the U. S. dollar did not have a fixed value in gold, the law of supply and demand would govern the gold market. There would be no "floor" under the price. If Russia wanted to sell part of her $9 billion hoard or her annual mine output, she would have to take what the market said.

If instead of a fixed U. S. buying price, there was a free market, the price of the metal under any heavy offerings would probably sell well below $35 an ounce. It might even go to $20 an ounce.

Outside of its monetary use—and that is somewhat fictional—gold, unlike other metals, fills only a small industrial need — about 30 per cent of the annual production. The rest of it, like the stone currency of the Yap Islanders in the Pacific, is buried in some vault, yielding nothing and costing storage.

The losers in a devaluation of the dollar would be the thrifty American citizen, with life insurance, savings accounts, Government savings bonds and pensions.

More Alice in Wonderland is the following from a N. Y. Times editorial on why it favors the Democratic nominee:

"What concerns us, therefore, is not the strong likelihood that Federal expenditures will rise, regardless of which party wins the Presidency, but rather the question of how such a program is to be handled. The Democratic party's platform goes far beyond the Republican platform in making promises of large spending. Yet it calls at this time for 'no increase in present tax rates.'"

"This is not a reassuring prospect, since it involves the hazards of inflation, but it is fair to note that in matters of fiscal policy Mr. Kennedy himself has been one of the more prudent Democrats in Congress."

Brushed aside is the fact that Mr. Kennedy's No. 1 economic adviser—the man most prominently mentioned as his choice for Secretary of the Treasury—is Harvard Professor J. Kenneth Galbraith. The professor thinks American society is too affluent and that Government should be bigger and should take a bigger slice of the national income. That is, Prof. Galbraith can spend your money better than you.

Also, ignored is the fact that if spending increases without corresponding increases in taxes there will be inflation. If taxes rise any further economic growth will be checked. What is needed are balanced federal budgets and lower taxes, and no more inflation eating away the savings of the people.

Foley's Charges
Distort Record

In this space yesterday, The Cumberland News pointed out that Rep. John R. Foley's allegations about Del. Charles McC. Mathias' voting record have been somewhat misleading. We showed, for example, that four-fifths of the measures on which Mr. Mathias is not recorded as voting were passed without a single dissenting vote, and that nearly all the others had only slight opposition.

Here's another lesson in what can be done with figures, if you select them carefully enough: Last June, and several times since, Rep. Foley declared that during the 1959 General Assembly session, Mr. Mathias failed to vote on Allegany County bills on 22 occasions. The Journal of Proceedings of the House of Delegates of Maryland is, substantially, in agreement. But what does it mean?

For one thing, a bill comes up for a vote several times during the course of its passage, and voting generally is recorded only on final action of the House. When a delegate has voted on a purely local bill and knows that it has no opposition, he may properly forget about it. The House, toward the end of its session, may pass well over a hundred bills in a single day. Few members concern themselves overmuch with purely local matters when the House is merely giving formal assent to its own previous actions.

On five of the Allegany County bills listed by Mr. Foley, Mr. Mathias did vote, though he is not recorded as voting on the dates listed by Mr. Foley. In some of these cases, Mr. Mathias voted when a bill was at a more important stage than on the date when his vote is not recorded. On 14 of the 22 occasions listed by Mr. Foley, the vote was unanimous. On four other occasions, Allegany County's own delegates were divided. Another thing to note here is that Mr. Foley says nothing about the 16 Allegany County bills that the Journal shows Mr. Mathias did vote on. Some were more important than those he is accused of neglecting. For example, one of the local bills on which Mr. Mathias is not recorded is a measure by which the State of Maryland, in its power and majesty, orders Allegany County to blacktop a school playground. Apparently our delegates thought it worth their while, but of what possible concern is this to a delegate sent to Annapolis primarily to represent the interests of another county.

From this discussion, and from the preceding one, it should be rather clear that Mr. Foley has taken the record out of context to create a totally false impression of Mr. Mathias' service in the House.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Embargo

The Castro government apparently anticipated the American embargo because of its enormous purchases of supplies preceding the embargo. An example is that between eight and ten carloads of specialized chemicals used as catalysts in oil refining were purchased in this country and were shipped to Cuba prior to the embargo. I understand that without these particular chemicals, the seized American oil refineries could not function. It may be that Castro's government might have purchased these catalysts elsewhere, but I am informed that that would be difficult. The oil plants, I am told, will be operable for between nine months and a year now, despite the American embargo which was issued too late. Why did the State Department permit these heavy chemicals to be shipped to Cuba?

The State Department policy toward Cuba is not understandable except that its officers are so fearful of the prospect of a war with Soviet Russia that they are paralyzed. All that Khrushchev needs to do is hang his shoe on a table, and the deskmen become petrified. While they were engaged in studying the situation, in making up their minds whether Fidel Castro is or is not a Communist, whether the United States should or should not protect American life and property in Cuba, that island, 90 miles off the coast of Florida, became a satellite of Soviet Russia, dispossessed not only Americans but Cubans from their businesses and homes and established a first-stage People's Republic.

While all this was happening, the United States looked on and said not a word and did not a thing. Characteristically, the Cubans did not seize Canadian banks and enterprises, just as Red China did not seize Hongkong. The reason: It is always necessary, in the first stages of a People's Republic, to have an outlet to the capitalist world. The Canadians are therefore reaping the benefits of our discomfiture and whereas we establish an embargo on goods shipped to Cuba, there is no reason why the Cubans cannot purchase these same American goods in Canada or in Mexico. In fact, Cuban deposits once held in the United States, have been removed to Canada and to some European countries. Canada is becoming a sort of Switzerland on the American continent in this respect. Senator John F. Kennedy has been most criticized for his strong statements with regard to Cuba. In this respect, he has been on the right side throughout. He has been speaking in the voice of American history and is much closer to the spirit of Theodore Roosevelt than Franklin D. Roosevelt. He is closer to the nationalistic attitude of the Republican Party than to the internationalism of the Eisenhower Administration.

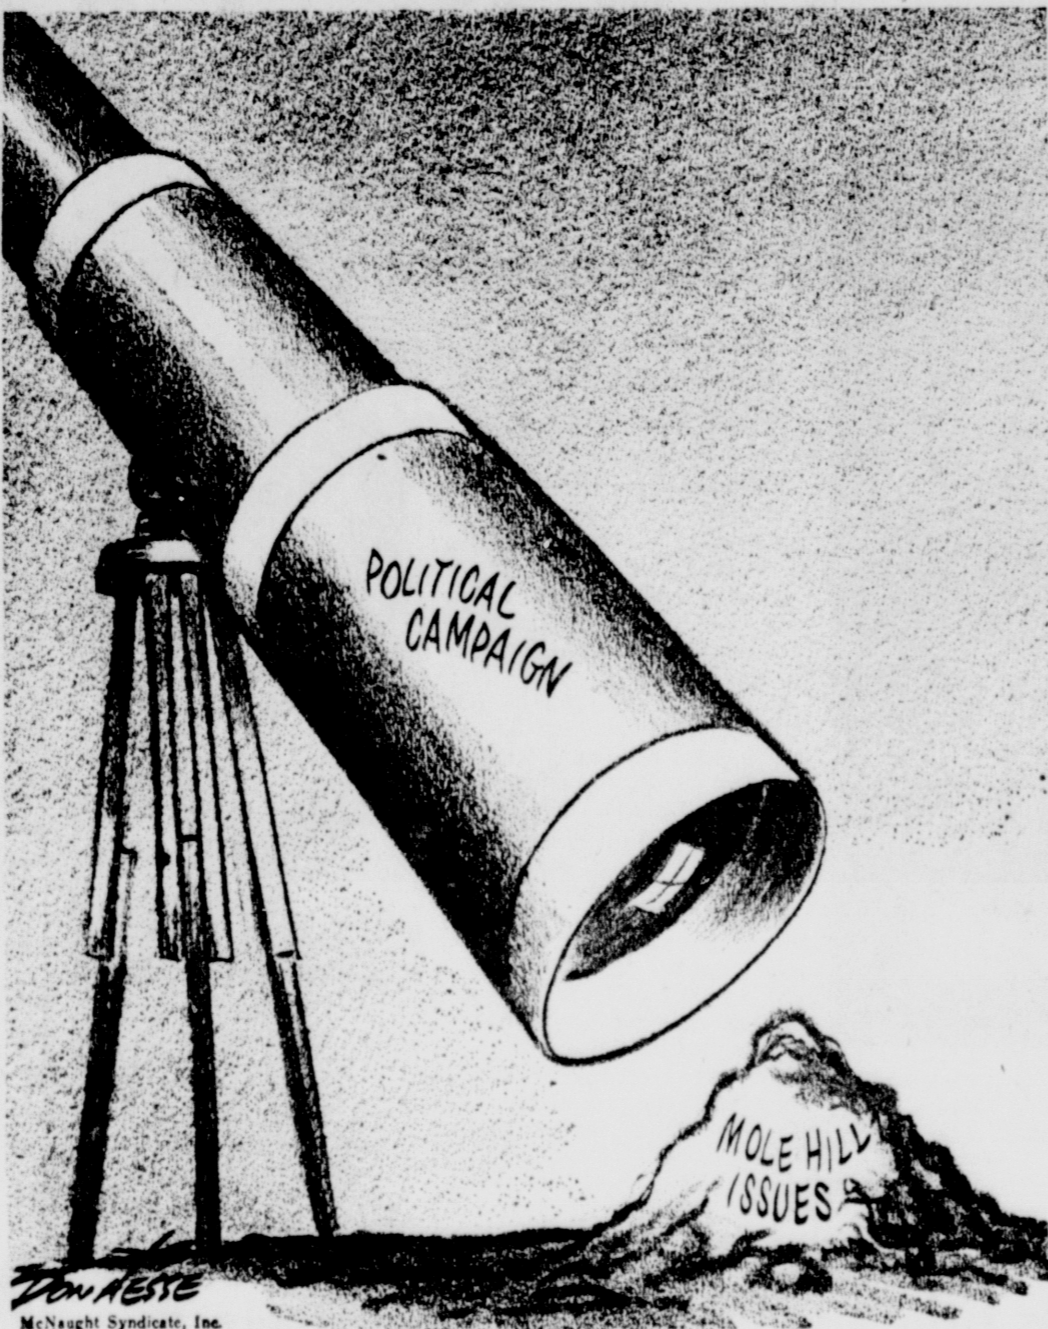

A nation that lives in fear of its enemy will be defeated by that enemy diplomatically as well as militarily, because a nation which possesses power and does not know when to use it becomes ridiculous in the eyes of those who fear only power. Already this has become evident in Panama, Venezuela, Mexico and Brazil. The United States possesses the power but seems to be like an elephant that fears a mouse.

For some reason, the United States cannot move quickly. On October 26, 1960, it is officially announced that we shall defend Guantanamo. Why wait two years to do that? It should have been done at the instant that Guantanamo was threatened. When the Castro gang threatened to cut off the water of Guantanamo, the United States should have taken possession of that water supply and protected it. Instead, we shipped water to Guantanamo. This sort of attitude is self-defeating. The Administration was forced by the excitement over Cuba during a Presidential campaign to take a few forceful steps concerning Cuba.

The Cuban situation will undoubtedly come to a head before long by the United States or the Organization of American States moving into Cuba to protect the Cuban people from conquest by Soviet Russia. As this is now unavoidable, the sooner it happens, the better.

How To Make Mountains

Prestige Debate Raises Moral, Political Questions

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON
Most curious moral and political questions are raised by the Nixon-Kennedy dispute about American prestige in the world, which has now been joined by President Eisenhower.

These questions were especially vividly posed by a recent issue of a great national newspaper. It contained both the text of the President's Philadelphia speech on Friday, and the text of the most recently unearthed confidential survey of the prestige problem by the U. S. Information Agency.

Here was the President, all bland reassurance, telling his hearers that all the kings and queens and prime ministers who have streamed through the White House "had no doubts about U. S. prestige." He did not say whether he meant to include Cuba's prime minister, Fidel Castro, for example, but he added with dignified indignation:

"In any case, whatever was America's image abroad at the beginning of this political campaign, it tends to be blurred today. This is because of unwarranted disparagement of our moral, military and political power."

"But here too, on an almost-adjointing newspaper page, was an official report from the very men the President himself had charged with responsibility for the "American image," as he likes to call it. Their report, based on extensive soundings in Western Europe, bore the recent date of Oct. 10. And these men were saying that our most valued allies now believe the United States has fallen behind the Soviet Union in space, in scientific capability, in military power, and even in future economic potential.

"Confidence in U. S. capacity for world leadership (also appears) less than satisfactory," the report glumly summed up. It is hard to remember a comparable spectacle. There has been nothing quite like this superb denial, by the President himself, of the plain truths so recently reported by his own official subordinates. Or perhaps there has been. For one recalls Stanley Baldwin shoving into his desk drawer, as things of no account, the British intelligence reports on Hitler's rearmament.

The moral question thus raised is whether the President, like Baldwin, is consciously deceiving the nation—an act that was held to be a capital crime in ancient Athens. The answer is surely in the negative, for no one can question Dwight D. Eisenhower's essential morality.

As far as he is concerned the solution of the riddle seems to lie in the Byzantine atmosphere of the Eisenhower White House. Harsh realities do not easily penetrate. Thus the President, with darker and darker clouds rising on every horizon, keeps happily assuring his visitors that "people-to-people relations" are what really matter, and delightedly recalling the hundreds of thousands who cheered him in India and Brazil.

But this issue to the moral question hardly extends to Vice-

Getting Truth Is Harder Than Ever
In Washington During Election Year

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — One of the toughest jobs in Washington these days is to get the truth. It's difficult at any time, but it's especially difficult during the nation's open season for political evasion—the election campaign.

Here are a few illustrations of what you run up against during the search for that elusive goal—truth:

POLITICAL STATEMENT — When Nixon's campaign manager, Robert Finch, issued an advance alibi for the Howard Hughes $205,000 loan story to Nixon's brother, he claimed that Frank J. Waters had helped out Don Nixon because Mrs. Waters and Don Nixon's wife had gone to school together.

FACT—When Mrs. Don Nixon was queried about this she said that she and Mrs. Waters had gone to school together, but added: "Frank Waters never helped us out at all. We barely know the man. There's nothing to that at all."

Actually Waters, attorney for Howard Hughes, was acting as trustee for the Hughes Tool Co.

POLITICAL STATEMENT — Campaign manager Finch claimed that Mrs. Hannah Nixon's lot 10 parcel on Whittier Boulevard, put up as security for the loan, was worth $200,000 to $300,000.

FACT—If the lot had been worth $300,000 at the time of her husband's death, Mrs. Nixon would have had to pay a $19,000 inheritance tax. She paid none. She did file an affidavit January 8,

1957, book 53401, page 16, with the Los Angeles recorder of deeds that her total property left by her husband, including the lot, "did not then exceed the sum of approximately $100,000."

POLITICAL STATEMENT — When the Justice Department, headed by Nixon's close friend, Attorney General William Rogers, went out of its way to issue a denial that the settlement of an antitrust suit against the Hughes Tool Co. was influenced by the Hughes loan to Nixon, the denial stated that the suit was brought after the Hughes loan was made.

Artificial Heart Could Replace Worn Organ

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Will any of us live to see the day when surgeons will be able to replace an irreparably sick heart with a mechanical facsimile? Yes, in my opinion, considering the progress made along this line by the department of Artificial Organs at the Cleveland Clinic Foundation.

A small artificial heart was inserted into the chest of a dog as its own heart was removed, and the animal lived five hours. During this time, the dog's circulation, blood pressure, and breathing were normal. The reflexes were maintained, indicating that the brain was getting enough blood.

The Cleveland team — Dr. Charles S. Houston, Dr. Tetsuzo Akutsu, and Dr. Willem J. Kolff — have built two mechanical hearts that mimic the human ticker. The second has advantages over the first, even though it was less successful in its first trial run.

It is a roller type pump with two valves resembling those of nature in design and action. The machine is streamlined to fit into the chest, where it is connected to the appropriate blood vessels.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

It was in September, just after the opening of the women's college that ornaments the town of Saratoga. As usual, a good many of the girls visited the bank to open checking accounts, writes Frank-Sullivan. One of them was a naive freshman. She wanted to open an account very badly.

"How much do you wish to deposit in the account?" asked an official of the bank.

The maid looked at him in starry innocence.

"Oh, I don't want to 'deposit' anything," she said. "I just want to open an account."

Limerick from Dr. Anthony Collum:

The operation takes an hour to complete, during which time a different type of artificial heart-lung machine must be used to keep the animal alive.

The replacement of a diseased heart may be the third important breakthrough by our cardiac surgeons. The first consisted of major surgery on the hearts of infants (blue babies). The second was replacement of damaged arteries in adults.

The machine contains an electric motor with wires protruding from the chest that are connected to a source of electricity. The Journal of the American Medical association commented editorially that in the future "a small atomic power plant may be installed within the chest to provide the power to operate the artificial heart."

Mrs. H. writes: What do you think about babies sleeping on the stomach day and night? Our daughter-in-law lets our grandsons sleep in this position, without ever changing. The older one had to be given X-ray for a thymus condition which I felt was caused by too much strain on his throat from sleeping on the stomach.

REPLY
Sleeping on the tummy is the recommended position for babies. It is more natural and has its advantages in case the youngster spits up or vomits. Sleeping posture has nothing to do with the thymus gland which, we now know, is largest in infancy and seldom causes symptoms.

HIGH HIP

A congenital dislocation of the hip is the most likely cause. This may escape detection until the child stands or tries to walk.

Not when inflammation involves a vein near the surface. Massive swelling occurs when the main deep vein becomes infected.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Iowa Hawkeyes retained their position as the nation's top major college football team Monday by accumulating the highest number of points in the weekly United Press International ratings since 1953.

Coach Forest Evashevski's unbeaten-untied Giants totaled 343 out of a possible 350 points. They were named on all 35 ballots turned in by the UPI Board of Coaches, picking up 29 first-place votes, five second-place votes and one third-place vote.

Highest Since 1953
It was the highest point total in the UPI ratings since Nov. 16, 1953, when Notre Dame topped the list with 345. Ironically, the Irish were held to a 14-14 tie by Iowa the following Saturday and wound up second behind Maryland in the final ratings that year.

Minnesota jumped from fourth to second place in this week's ratings to lend further significance to the Gophers' clash with Iowa Saturday in their crucial "Meatin'" of the unbeaten. It will mark the first head-on battle between the top two teams in the UPI ratings since they were inaugurated in 1950.

In taking over the runner-up spot, Minnesota also was named on all 35 ballots, gaining one first place vote and 281 points.

The remainder of the top 10 group was given a fast shuffle as a result of Syracuse's upset loss to Pittsburgh and Mississippi's tie against Louisiana State.

Navy moved from fifth to third, Missouri also jumped two notches to fourth, Ohio State vaulted from eighth to fifth and Mississippi skidded from second to sixth.

Washington advanced from ninth to seventh place, Tennessee climbed from 11th to eighth, Syracuse tumbled from third to ninth, and Rice jumped from 12th to 10th place.

Missouri and Ohio State each were awarded two first-place votes while the remaining first-place ballot went to Navy. The points are distributed on the basis of 10 for a first place vote, nine for second, eight for third, etc. so Iowa collected 290 points alone in first place votes.

Baylor Slides To 11th
Baylor slid from seventh to 11th place after bowing to Texas Christian and Michigan State's loss to Ohio State dropped the Spartans from 10th to a tie for 16th. Other members of the second 10 group included Duke, Arkansas, Wyoming, Wisconsin, Colorado, New Mexico State, UCLA and Pittsburgh.

Wally Moses Joins Yanks
Houk Completes Coaching Staff

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wally Moses, former star American League outfielder, Monday was named coach of the New York Yankees under new manager Ralph Houk for 1961.

The appointment of Moses, 50, completed the '61 coaching staff, the Yankees said. Previously named to serve under Houk were Frank Crosetti and Jim Hegan, both holdovers, plus pitching coach Johnny Sain.

Moses, who spent most of his major league career with the old Philadelphia Athletics, has been a coach for the Cincinnati Reds for the past two years.

Moses, born in Uvalde, Ga., and now a resident of Germantown, Pa., had a 291 lifetime batting average in the major leagues, including a .345 mark in 1936. He has served as a coach with the A's and Philadelphia Phillies in addition to Cincinnati.

Houk announced that Moses will replace him as the team's first base coach and also will serve as the club batting instructor.

Keep Class A Status Keyser Books Locals
Tom Is Globetrotter Carl 5th Nationally

By C. V. BURNS
ALLEGANY and Fort Hill have decided to remain on the Class A level in statewide competition in cross country, track and basketball.

The enrollment of both schools puts them in Class A but they were given until November 5 to decide whether they prefer to join the newly adopted Class AA for schools with enrollment of 500 or more in the three top grades.

Beall is the third Class A school in Allegany county. There will be 20 schools competing in Class AA.

Allegany and Fort Hill preferred to remain in Class A for the next year at least to see how the new Class AA setup works out.

WHEN Tommy Richards, of Carlos, joins the San Diego club of the Pacific Coast League next year, he will be playing with the ninth minor league club since he was signed by the Chicago White Sox in 1954.

Allegany county's globetrotting ballplayer won seven and lost four for Manager Johnny Lipon's Mobile club of the Class AA Southern Association this year and he graduates into Triple AAA at San Diego.

The former Beall High School pitching ace's tour of duty includes teams in Canada and seven different states, namely, Iowa, Wisconsin, Colorado, Indiana, South Carolina, Alabama, and California in 1961.

Tommy has pitched for Toronto in the International League, Duquesne in the Mississippi Ohio Valley, Superior in the Northern, Colorado Springs in the Western, Waterloo in the Three-Eye, Indianapolis of the American Association, Charleston of the Sally (South Atlantic) and Mobile.

This year he pitched one game at Indianapolis and beat Denver. Then he was sent to Mobile where he finished the season. Mobile is affiliated with the Cleveland Indians.

Tommy, whose brother Dave helped pitch Barrelville's Old Exports to the Pen-Mar League championship this year, had an opportunity to play winter ball but he would rather hunt in the off season and rest before the 1961 campaign rolls around.

FORT HILL appears on Keyser High's basketball schedule for the first time since 1949, according to John R. Shelton, now assistant principal at Keyser.

The teams will meet only once during the coming season and the game will be staged here.

Three other W. M. I. League schools appear on the Keyser cage card for single games. Allegany and Bruce play there while Valley will play host to the Mineral counties.

Withdrawal of Allegany and Fort Hill from the C.V.A.L. enabled those schools to find a spot on their schedules for Keyser which is a much better drawing card.

IF North Hagerstown fails to win Friday's game with South High's Rebels the Hubs will have gone winless for the second time in four years.

Mel Henry's gridders were 0-9-1 in 1957 and this season they are 0-7-1.

These two bad seasons have plunged Mel's 12-year record as football coach of the Hubs to 51-49-10.

THE upcoming game between Allegany and Westminster Friday night in Carroll county is a reminder that the Campers never have beaten the Owls and are 0-4 in their series with Herb Ruby's teams.

Fort Hill never has lost to Westminster and has whipped the Owls ten consecutive times.

The National League, which meets in St. Louis Dec. 5, recently expanded to 10 teams, adding Houston and New York for the 1962 season. The Evening News said the 12-team alignment would be put into operation in 1963 or 1964.

The newspaper quoted Branch Rickey, president of the defunct Continental League, as saying he had talked with several National League club owners and commissioner Ford Frick and had learned of their agreement on such expansion.

Navy Soars To 3d Place In National Grid Standings

Iowa Point Total Highest Since 1953

Hawkeyes Get 343 Of Possible 350; Minnesota Second

By TIM MORIARTY
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—The Iowa Hawkeyes retained their position as the nation's top major college football team Monday by accumulating the highest number of points in the weekly United Press International ratings since 1953.

Coach Forest Evashevski's unbeaten-untied Giants totaled 343 out of a possible 350 points. They were named on all 35 ballots turned in by the UPI Board of Coaches, picking up 29 first-place votes, five second-place votes and one third-place vote.

Highest Since 1953
It was the highest point total in the UPI ratings since Nov. 16, 1953, when Notre Dame topped the list with 345. Ironically, the Irish were held to a 14-14 tie by Iowa the following Saturday and wound up second behind Maryland in the final ratings that year.

Minnesota jumped from fourth to second place in this week's ratings to lend further significance to the Gophers' clash with Iowa Saturday in their crucial "Meat" of the unbeaten. It will mark the first head-on battle between the top two teams in the UPI ratings since they were inaugurated in 1950.

In taking over the runner-up spot, Minnesota also was named on all 35 ballots, gaining one first place vote and 281 points.

The remainder of the top 10 group was given a fast shuffle as a result of Syracuse's upset loss to Pittsburgh and Mississippi's tie against Louisiana State.

Navy Moves To 3d
Navy moved from fifth to third, Missouri also jumped two notches to fourth, Ohio State vaulted from eighth to fifth and Mississippi skidded from second to sixth.

Washington advanced from ninth to seventh place, Tennessee climbed from 11th to eighth, Syracuse tumbled from third to ninth, and Rice jumped from 12th to 10th place.

Missouri and Ohio State each were awarded two first-place votes while the remaining first-place ballot went to Navy. The points are distributed on the basis of 10 for a first place vote, nine for second, eight for third, etc.

So Iowa collected 290 points alone in first place votes.

Baylor Slides To 11th
Baylor slid from seventh to 11th place after bowing to Texas Christian and Michigan State's loss to Ohio State dropped the Spartans from 10th to a tie for 16th. Other members of the second 10 group included Duke, Arkansas, Wyoming, Wisconsin, Colorado, New Mexico State, UCLA and Pittsburgh.

ALLEGANY and Fort Hill have decided to remain on the Class A level in statewide competition in cross country, track and basketball.

The enrollment of both schools puts them in Class A but they were given until November 5 to decide whether they prefer to join the newly adopted Class AA for schools with enrollment of 500 or more in the three top grades.

Beall is the third Class A school in Allegany county. There will be 20 schools competing in Class AA.

Allegany and Fort Hill preferred to remain in Class A for the next year at least to see how the new Class AA setup works out.

WHEN Tommy Richards, of Carlos, joins the San Diego club of the Pacific Coast League next year, he will be playing with the ninth minor league club since he was signed by the Chicago White Sox in 1954.

Allegany county's globetrotting ballplayer won seven and lost four for Manager Johnny Lipon's Mobile club of the Class AA Southern Association this year and he graduates into Triple AAA at San Diego.

Tommy has pitched for Toronto in the International League, Duquesne in the Mississippi Ohio Valley, Superior in the Northern, Colorado Springs in the Western, Waterloo in the Three-Eye, Indianapolis in the American Association, Charleston of the Sally (South Atlantic) and Mobile.

FORT HILL appears on Keyser High's basketball schedule for the first time since 1949, according to John R. Shelton, now assistant principal at Keyser.

Three other W. M. I. League schools appear on the Keyser cage card for single games. Allegany and Bruce play there while Valley will play host to the Mineral countians.

Fort Hill never has lost to Westminster and has whipped the Owls ten consecutive times.

CARL HARTMAN, former

Ridgeley High cage star, and Alderson-Broadus College scoring ace from 1952 through 1955, now ranks fifth among the nation's all-time college basketball scoring leaders with 3,373 points for four years at the Philippi, W. Va., school, according to the 39th edition of the Converse Basketball Yearbook, published by the Converse Rubber Company, of Massachusetts.

Joe Miller, 1957 grad, of Alderson-Broadus is No. 1 with 3,645 points.

Oscar Robertson, former Cincinnati U. star, now in the NBA, occupies fourth place with 3,402 tallies.

Rod Hundley, the ex-West Virginia U. flash, is 11th on the list with 2,930 markers.

Jerry West, another WVU ace, has 2,672 and Dick Groat, the Pittsburgh Pirates' classy shortstop, who was an all-time basketball great at Duke University, scored 2,087 points in four seasons.

THE CONVERSE Yearbook is bigger and better than ever. Photos of the 1960 West Virginia high school champs, namely, Parkersburg (AAA), Romney (AA) and Paden City (A), are displayed as well as Maryland's top quints—Bladensburg (A), Surattsville (B) and Walkersville (C).

HOW ABOUT THIS for an odd finish to a college football game:

Catawba led Elon, 12-7, with only 15 seconds to go and had possession of the ball on Elon's 10.

Catawba tried to make it 15-7 with a field goal but the kick was wide and the Elon quarterback fielded the ball deep in the end zone, dashed 108 yards to score and gave his team a 13-12 victory.

Dallas-Ft. Worth, Buffalo May Be New Teams In National

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—The Buffalo Evening News Monday said the National League will award franchises to Buffalo and Dallas-Fort Worth and expand to 12 teams at its annual meeting in December.

The National League, which meets in St. Louis Dec. 5, recently expanded to 10 teams, adding Houston and New York for the 1962 season. The Evening News said the 12-team alignment would be put into operation in 1963 or 1964.

The newspaper quoted Branch Rickey, president of the defunct Continental League, as saying he had talked with several National League club owners and commissioner Ford Frick and had learned of their agreement on such expansion.

Following Navy and Syracuse were Pittsburgh, Penn. State, Yale, Army, Rutgers, Princeton, Harvard and Holy Cross.

Tufts, winner of all six of its games, tops the small college set. West Chester State (7-0) is second, followed by Albright, Wagner, Hofstra, Massachusetts, Rochester, Lehigh, Middlebury and Penn. Military.

TOP SCORER — Jim Hudson, above, halfback of St. Mary's championship team, captured the individual scoring title in the Catholic Youth Football League this season by registering a total of 64 points. His four brothers, Don, Harold, Tom and Jack, played for St. Mary's in past years.

Baumann Tops Hurlers In AL, Has 2.68 ERA

Giants' McCormick Heads NL With 2.70

NEW YORK (AP)—Young Mike McCormick of the San Francisco Giants and Frank Baumann of the Chicago White Sox won the major League earned run championships in 1960, final averages revealed Monday. Both pitchers are left-handed.

McCormick led the National League with a 2.70 ERA, and Baumann topped the American with 2.68, according to figures compiled by the Associated Press.

Each is a former bonus boy. Baumann received a reported $90,000 from the Boston Red Sox in 1952. He was traded to the White Sox last November for first baseman Ron Jackson. McCormick received an estimated $50,000 from the Giants in 1956. His triumph made it three consecutive ERA crowns for Giant pitchers. Stu Miller was the NL leader in 1958 and Sam Jones in 1959.

McCormick finished the past season with 15 victories and 12 losses. He gave up 76 earned runs in 253 innings and pitched four shutouts—three against the Los Angeles Dodgers. In 1959, the Pasadena, Calif., native had a 12-16 record and a 3.98 ERA.

Baumann's 1960 won-lost record was 13-6. He is the first White Sox pitcher to win earned run title since Billy Pierce in 1955. Jim Bunning of Detroit was the American League runner-up with a 2.79 mark. He yielded 78 earned runs in 252 innings while winning 11 games and losing 14. Whitey Ford of New York, the ERA champion in 1956 and 1958, was third with 3.02 followed by Art Ditmar of the Yankees and Hector Brown of Baltimore, 3.06 each.

Ernie Broglio, a 21-game winner for the St. Louis Cardinals, was second in the National League. He gave up 69 earned runs in 226 innings for a 2.75 earned run mark. Broglio had three shutouts.

Don Drysdale of the Dodgers was third at 2.84. The big right-hander pitched five shutouts and led the majors in strikeouts with 246. Bob Friend of the pennant-winning Pittsburgh Pirates and Stan Williams of Los Angeles tied for fourth with 3.00.

Alvin Dark Becomes New Manager Of San Francisco

Rodgers Sent To Milwaukee For Veteran

Dark Gets 2-Year Pact As Successor To Tom Sheehan

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Alvin Dark, former field captain of the Giants, Monday was named the new San Francisco baseball manager and given a two year contract.

The 37-year-old National League veteran, with no previous managerial experience, succeeds Tom Sheehan who took over from fired Bill Rigney last June 18.

To get Dark, who finished the 1960 season with Milwaukee, the Giants traded utility infielder Andre Rodgers to the Braves.

Dark played for the Giants from 1950 to 1953, and was the sparring shortstop of the championship clubs of 1951 and 1954.

His selection was announced Monday by Vice President Charles Feeney.

Giants Traded By 16

To Dark goes the job of rejuvenating a club that finished fifth last season after many tabbed it the pennant winner in the pre-season forecasts. The Giants were second when Rigney was fired but wound up 16 games off the Pittsburgh Pirates' pace.

Salary terms for the two-year contract were not disclosed.

Asked whether managing a team had been a long-time desire, Dark replied that most ball players have the desire to manage as soon as they start playing.

"I have always wanted to stay in baseball in some capacity," he said.

Dark will meet with President Horace Stoneham of the Giants at the major league conferences in December. Most of his consultations with the Giant front office, prior to next season, will be by telephone. Dark said he has many speaking engagements lined up and feels he is committed to keep them.

Cable Congratulations

Both Stoneham and Sheehan sent cabled congratulations to Dark and welcomed him back to the Giant fold. They are in Japan where the Giants are playing a series of exhibition games.

Dark was asked if he thought the Giants had too many Negro players and replied: "I don't see how you can separate players. I hear on TV every day that if a man has ability he should be given the opportunity to express his ability."

In answering the question, the new manager declared: "Some people might think that because I'm from the South I'm prejudiced. But I have played with many Negroes and I never thought I'd treat a colored fellow unfairly."

Asked if the thought of handling a major league club as his first managerial job was frightening, Dark replied, "Not at all."

Grid Star At LSU

Dark, from Lake Charles, La., starred in football at Louisiana State University before signing a bonus contract with the Boston Braves in 1946.

He joined the New York Giants in 1950 playing shortstop on the National League champions of 1951 and the world championship club of 1954. Always he was regarded as a team leader. Leo Durocher, when managing the team named him field captain.

During 14 seasons in the majors, Dark played with the Braves, Giants, St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Phillies.

Stengel May Lead New Club At L.A.

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel may be the field manager and general manager of the American League's new Los Angeles club if and when Hank Greenberg and Bill Veeck acquire the new franchise, the Associated Press learned Monday.

Greenberg and Veeck virtually are certain to own the Los Angeles club, which will operate next year. They are expected to dispose of their holdings in the Chicago White Sox soon after the American League, at its scheduled meeting Nov. 17, approves their bid for the California franchise.

Veeck made the offer to Stengel last week before the 70-year-old baseball genius left New York for his Glendale, Calif., home. Casey promised to give the matter serious consideration and give his answer in three weeks. A source close to Stengel said Casey would accept.

Bruce Booters Need Win Today To Tie Up Race

Mt. Savage Indians Entertain Bulldogs

Alvin Dark Becomes New Manager Of San Francisco

Rodgers Sent To Milwaukee For Veteran

Dark Gets 2-Year Pact As Successor To Tom Sheehan

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Alvin Dark, former field captain of the Giants, Monday was named the new San Francisco baseball manager and given a two year contract.

The 37-year-old National League veteran, with no previous managerial experience, succeeds Tom Sheehan who took over from fired Bill Rigney last June 18.

To get Dark, who finished the 1960 season with Milwaukee, the Giants traded utility infielder Andre Rodgers to the Braves.

Dark played for the Giants from 1950 to 1955, and was the sparring partner of the championship club of 1951 and 1954.

His selection was announced Monday by Vice President Charles Feeney.

Giants Traded By 16

To Dark goes the job of rejuvenating a club that finished fifth last season after many tabbed it the pennant winner in the pre-season forecasts. The Giants were second when Rigney was fired but wound up 16 games off the Pittsburgh Pirates' pace.

Salary terms for the two-year contract were not disclosed.

Asked whether managing a team had been a long-time desire, Dark replied that most ball players have the desire to manage as soon as they start playing.

"I have always wanted to stay in baseball in some capacity," he said.

Dark will meet with President Horace Stoneham of the Giants at the major league conferences in December. Most of his consultations with the Giant front office, prior to next season, will be by telephone. Dark said he has many speaking engagements lined up and feels he is committed to keep them.

Cable Congratulations

Both Stoneham and Sheehan sent cable congratulations to Dark and welcomed him back to the Giant fold. They are in Japan where the Giants are playing a series of exhibition games.

Dark was asked if he thought the Giants had too many Negro players and replied: "I don't see how you can separate players. I hear on TV every day that if a man has ability he should be given the opportunity to express his ability."

In answering the question, the new manager declared: "Some people might think that because I'm from the South I'm prejudiced. But I have played with many Negroes and I never thought I'd treat a colored fellow unfairly."

Asked if the thought of handling a major league club as his first managerial job was frightening, Dark replied, "Not at all."

Grid Star At LSU

Dark, from Lake Charles, La., starred in football at Louisiana State University before signing a bonus contract with the Boston Braves in 1946.

He joined the New York Giants in 1950 playing shortstop on the National League champions of 1951 and the world championship club of 1954. Always he was regarded as a team leader. Leo Durocher, when managing the team named him field captain.

During 14 seasons in the majors, Dark played with the Braves, Giants, St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Phillies.

Stengel May Lead New Club At L.A.

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel may be the field manager and general manager of the American League's new Los Angeles club if and when Hank Greenberg and Bill Veeck acquire the new franchise, the Associated Press learned Monday.

Greenberg and Veeck virtually are certain to own the Los Angeles club, which will operate next year. They are expected to dispose of their holdings in the Chicago White Sox soon after the American League, at its scheduled meeting Nov. 17, approves their bid for the California franchise.

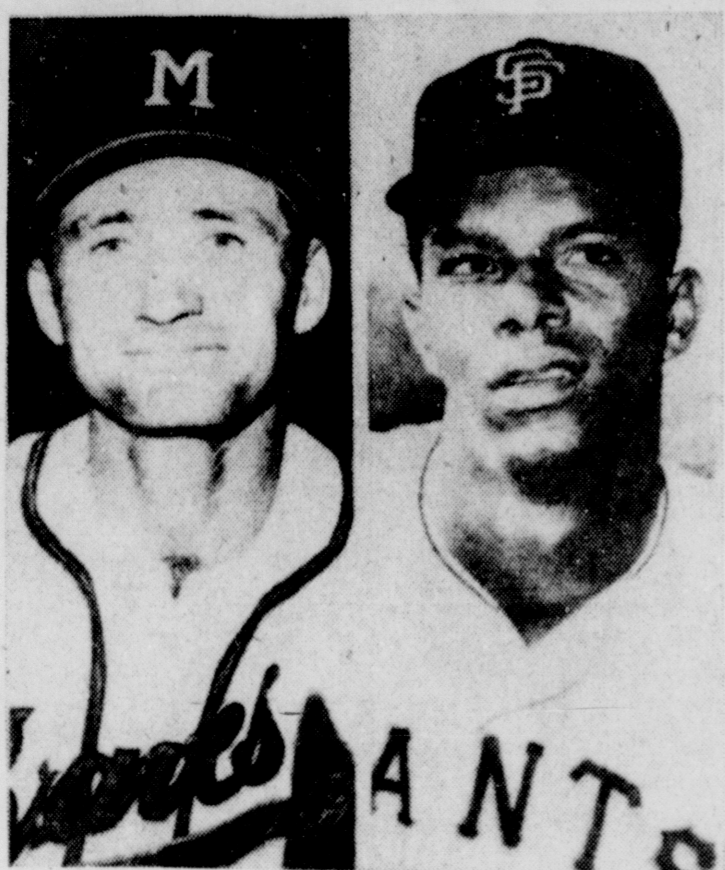

Veeck made the offer to Stengel last week before the 70-year-old baseball genius left New York for his Glendale, Calif., home. Casey promised to give the matter serious consideration and give his answer in three weeks. A source close to Stengel said Casey would accept.

Randolph Gives His Opinion About Taxes

RAVENSWOOD, W. Va. (UPI)—Sen. Jennings Randolph indicated Sunday that some Americans would have to pay more taxes if federal functions were turned over to the state or local governments.

Randolph told a Democratic meeting here that the Eisenhower administration "has been preaching the desirability of turning federal functions over to the states or localities."

"This philosophy was used to justify presidential vetoes of fund for pollution control, slum clearance and natural resource development," the Democratic senatorial nominee said.

"The shield for this philosophy may be 'states rights' but the wealthy donors to the Republican campaigns have a more practical reason for wanting services performed and financed locally," the senator said. "This is because local activities cost them less—but cost the ordinary taxpayer more."

The senator said that state and local taxes "are not geared as much to ability-to-pay as are federal taxes."

Gov. Underwood Will Visit Area By Helicopter

Piedmont, Bayard, Ft. Ashby, Mt. Storm, Visits Scheduled

KEYSER — Gov. Cecil H. Underwood, Republican candidate for United States Senator, will visit Fort Ashby and Piedmont, today by helicopter, according to an announcement made Monday by Mineral County Republican Chairman, James A. Dixon. Governor Underwood's helicopter campaign has become famous all over West Virginia and he has received large crowds as he visits the smaller communities often overlooked by state candidates.

Governor Underwood will campaign all week in the helicopter and will arrive at Fort Ashby on the high school grounds at 11:30 a.m. The governor will make a brief talk and then meet as many people as possible before taking off for his next stop.

Following the Fort Ashby visit Governor Underwood will land on the high school lawn in Piedmont. He will make a short talk there and then proceed on to Mt. Storm and Bayard. The arrival time at Piedmont is 12 noon.

Chairman Dixon who is making the arrangements for the helicopter visit urged all citizens to take advantage of the opportunity to hear, meet and speak with the governor.

Governor Underwood spent a busy day in the area on Saturday, flying to Berkeley Springs where he spoke before a huge gathering attending the ox roast sponsored by Morgan County Republicans at the airport. Charles J. Whiston, candidate for congress, Carl Wiemer, candidate for secretary of state, and Harold J. Carvey, candidate for State Senate, were also speakers.

Following the Morgan County visit, Governor Underwood flew to Petersburg to address a Grant County rally, before returning to Charleston.

West Virginia Economic Level On Up-Grade

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia's economic level at the end of 1960 probably will show the second best record of any year in the past decade, the State Chamber of Commerce said Monday.

A report covering the first three quarters of the year said gains were recorded in 14 of the 20 categories of business gauged by the chamber. During September, there were gains in 12 divisions over August but in only 10 over September, 1959.

The chamber said the final totals for the year should show the best record since 1957, the peak year of the past decade.

The report said the monthly average of 452,500 persons employed was slightly less than 1 per cent below 1959 but earnings of $1.6 billion were greater than 1959 and only $9 million behind 1957's rate.

At the same time, benefit payments to the jobless of $17.25 million were nearly 23 per cent lower than last year. Miners and factory workers were both higher. The average of miners' pay was listed at $119 a week and factory workers' at $93.

Gains were recorded in the January-through-September period over the similar 1959 period in coal, crude oil and lumber production; value of manufactured products; railway carloadings; bank debits; life insurance sales; post office receipts, and consumer, gross sales and gasoline tax collections.

So-called "weak spots" — those categories showing declines—were value of building permits, retail stores, farm income, and natural gas and electric power production.

In September, principal gains over the year-ago level were in coal, power and lumber production, building permit values, farm income and miners' wages. Chief September-over-August gains were in gas, oil and power production, manufactured products, consumer and gas tax receipts, salaries and employment.

Randolph Gives His Opinion About Taxes

RAVENSWOOD, W. Va. (UPI)—Sen. Jennings Randolph indicated Sunday that some Americans would have to pay more taxes if federal functions were turned over to the state or local governments.

Randolph told a Democratic meeting here that the Eisenhower administration "has been preaching the desirability of turning federal functions over to the states or localities."

"This philosophy was used to justify presidential vetoes of fund for pollution control, slum clearance and natural resource development," the Democratic senatorial nominee said.

"The shield for this philosophy may be 'states rights' but the wealthy donors to the Republican campaigns have a more practical reason for wanting services performed and financed locally," the senator said. "This is because local activities cost them less—but cost the ordinary taxpayer more."

The senator said that state and local taxes "are not geared as much to ability-to-pay as are federal taxes."

Gov. Underwood Will Visit Area By Helicopter

Piedmont, Bayard, Ft. Ashby, Mt. Storm, Visits Scheduled

KEYSER — Gov. Cecil H. Underwood, Republican candidate for United States Senator, will visit Fort Ashby and Piedmont, today by helicopter, according to an announcement made Monday by Mineral County Republican Chairman, James A. Dixon. Governor Underwood's helicopter campaign has become famous all over West Virginia and he has received large crowds as he visits the smaller communities often overlooked by state candidates.

Governor Underwood will campaign all week in the helicopter and will arrive at Fort Ashby on the high school grounds at 11:30 a.m. The governor will make a brief talk and then meet as many people as possible before taking off for his next stop.

Following the Fort Ashby visit Governor Underwood will land on the high school lawn in Piedmont. He will make a short talk there and then proceed on to Mt. Storm and Bayard. The arrival time at Piedmont is 12 noon.

Chairman Dixon who is making the arrangements for the helicopter visit urged all citizens to take advantage of the opportunity to hear, meet and speak with the governor.

Governor Underwood spent a busy day in the area on Saturday, flying to Berkeley Springs where he spoke before a huge gathering attending the ox roast sponsored by Morgan County Republicans at the airport. Charles J. Whiston, candidate for congress, Carl Wier, candidate for secretary of state, and Harold J. Carvey, candidate for State Senate, were also speakers.

Following the Morgan County visit, Governor Underwood flew to Petersburg to address a Grant County rally, before returning to Charleston.

West Virginia Economic Level On Up-Grade

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia's economic level at the end of 1960 probably will show the second best record of any year in the past decade, the State Chamber of Commerce said Monday.

A report covering the first three quarters of the year said gains were recorded in 14 of the 20 categories of business gauged by the chamber. During September, there were gains in 12 divisions over August but in only 10 over September, 1959.

The chamber said the final totals for the year should show the best record since 1957, the peak year of the past decade.

The report said the monthly average of 452,500 persons employed was slightly less than 1 per cent below 1959 but earnings of $1.6 billion were greater than 1959 and only $9 million behind 1957's rate.

At the same time, benefit payments to the jobless of $17.25 million were nearly 23 per cent lower than last year. Miners and factory workers were both higher. The average of miners' pay was listed at $119 a week and factory workers' at $93.

Gains were recorded in the January - through - September period over the similar 1959 period in coal, crude oil and lumber production; value of manufactured products; railway loadings; bank deposits; life insurance sales; personal income receipts; and consumer gross sales and gasoline tax collections.

So-called "weak spots" — those categories showing declines — were value of building permits, retail stores, farm income, and natural gas and electric power production.

In September, principal gains over the year-ago level were in coal, power and lumber production, building permit values, farm income and miners' wages. Chief September - over - August gains were in gas, oil and power production, manufactured products, consumer and gas tax receipts, salaries and employment.

Methodist Church, according to
Rev. Louis L. Emerick, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church and dean of the school.

Classes will be held on Tues-

the next three weeks, Rev. Mr.
Emerick said, adding that they will run from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

will lead the opening devotional period for each class.

At the conclusion of the evening session on November 9, Mrs.

of a coffee hour and evaluation period. Rev. John Park, pastor of Centerville Methodist Church, will have the closing devotions on Wednesday evening, November 16.

Five different courses are being offered to interested persons of all faiths. One course, "The secretary of the Baltimore Conference Board of Education. He will be assisted by Mrs. Robert

"Christian Beliefs" will be conducted by Rev. Robert Current,

"New Testament: Content and Values" will be taught by Rev.
Robert Bavender, pastor of Cres-apton Methodist Church.

The fifth class will be conducted by Dr. Paul F. Warner, superintendent of the Hagerstown District, and Rev. Carlton M. Harris,

Five Men Drown In Cheat River

Four Victims Residents Of Garrett Co.

Sawmill Workers' Boat Is Swamped; Two Men Saved

Five sawmill employees, including four men from Garrett County, were drowned yesterday afternoon when their outboard motorboat swamped as they were crossing the Cheat River in Tucker County, W. Va., on their way home from work. Two of the Garrett County victims were brothers.

West Virginia State Trooper A. J. Wade identified the men as:

Clarence Arthur Uphold, 60, Friendsville.
Floyd Ray Frazee, 26, Crel-lin.

Kenneth Cassidy, Red House.
Gerald Cassidy, Red House.
Vernon Grover, 39, Rowles-burg.

Trooper Wade said the front of the small aluminum boat apparently filled with water and swamped about midstream as the group were returning to their cars, parked along West Virginia Route 72 on the opposite side of the river from the sawmill. Two other men in the boat were saved.

Trooper Wade said Martin Gump, 29, of Rowlesburg, clung to the side of the 14-foot boat which did not sink and was rescued when he was tossed a rope line from shore. Danny Richard Uphold, of Rowlesburg and a nephew of one of the drowned men, was able to safely swim ashore.

Neither of the two survivors required hospitalization, the state trooper stated.

The accident occurred about 2:45 p.m. at Hannahsville, W. Va., about halfway between Rowlesburg and St. George, in Tucker County. The bodies of the five victims were taken to the Green-lief Funeral Home in Parsons, about 15 miles south of Hannahsville.

Firemen Respond

Members of the Rowlesburg, Westover, Parsons and Kingwood fire companies rushed to the scene and dragged the river with boats and grappling hooks.

The body of the first victim, Clarence Uphold, was recovered near where the boat swamped about a half hour later. The last body—that of Gerald Cassidy—was brought to the surface at 7:20 p.m., nearly five hours after the accident occurred.

Rowlesburg fire company personnel received the first report of the tragedy. They said a gasoline station operator called in the report after driving some distance to a telephone. Communication facilities are sparse in the area. The drownings happened in 12 to 15 feet of water where authorities said the river was rather swift. The victims were heavily clothed, many with overalls over their regular clothing. All wore heavy leather boots and one man reportedly had a number of tools in his pockets.

Trooper Wade said the men had been working at the sawmill owned by Edward and Donald Frazee and Ward Sisler, all of Friendsville.

Daily Practice

They made it a daily practice to cross the river going to and from work, he stated, as the sawmill was located on the opposite side of the stream from Route 72 and there were no bridges nearby. Some of the workers at the mill, which employs 12 to 14 men, often waded across the river several hundred feet upstream where it was shallow. The boat, however, was placed at the disposal of those who wished to use it.

Trooper Wade said two of the men had crossed the river in the boat, when the other five called to them. They returned and all seven got into the craft.

Danny Uphold, one of the two survivors, told Trooper Wade the group was halfway across the river when he noticed water coming in the front of the boat. He said he then jumped out of the boat and swam to shore, but did not know what became of the others.

The state trooper said the men had quit work early at the mill because a day-long rain made the timber too wet to cut.

Getty Favors Strong Laws On Hunting

Local Man Cleared In Youth's Death

State's Attorney James S. Getty said yesterday some stronger legislation should be enacted covering hunting accidents.

Mr. Getty made the statement following the conclusion of the investigation of a hunting accident in which a 17-year-old Cresaptown youth was fatally injured last month.

Victim of the hunting accident was Brady Dennison Hill Jr., who died Thursday night in University Hospital, Baltimore.

Steven G. Taylor, 24, of 69 Prospect Square, who shot the Hill youth, was questioned yesterday in the state's attorney's office by County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya.

Mr. Getty said at the conclusion of the questioning it was decided there was not sufficient evidence in the case of gross negligence to warrant a charge of manslaughter against Taylor.

The state's attorney said there has been such a rash of hunting accidents in this area recently that it very much takes on the appearance of "legalized murder."

Mr. Getty said he plans to recommend to the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly that some legislation be enacted to provide permanent revocation of hunting permits and confiscation of weapons for anyone involved in a hunting accident.

"I believe there should be some intermediate offense other than manslaughter covering such hunting accidents," Mr. Getty stated.

The Hill youth was shot in the neck with a bullet from a .22 calibre rifle on October 14 and died almost two weeks later.

The shooting occurred on the Bernstein place near the Hill farm, located off Maryland Route 53 in the Cresaptown area.

Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police, and Trooper Richard J. Graham investigated the accident.

Neely Plays Recording; Barron To Sue

Democrat Rival Charges Slander

By J. RICHARD TOREN

United Press International
CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Harold E. Neely, Republican nominee for governor, released the Barron-Skeen "tape recording" to newsmen Monday and the Democratic opponent W. W. Barron countered immediately with a $400,000 slander suit.

Neely played the tape, allegedly showing that Barron offered $65,000 to State Treasurer Orel J. Skeen last November to stay out of the gubernatorial race, at a 9 a.m. news conference.

Seven hours later, at his own news conference, Barron announced that he had instructed his attorney to file suit against Neely "who today circulated... malicious falsehoods through a rigged tape recording."

He charged Neely with "simply trying to confuse the voters... (and) smear the Democratic party so that the people's attention will be diverted."

Barron, the state attorney general since 1957, previously had filed a $300,000 suit against Skeen the day after the Charleston Gazette printed Skeen's charges last May 4.

Terms Not Disclosed

Barron went on to win the Democratic gubernatorial nomination handily—with Skeen running a poor third—then settled the suit out of court Oct. 7. Terms were not disclosed, but Skeen said publicly he regretted having acted hastily in making charges against Barron, and the attorney general said he felt he had been "completely vindicated."

The tape recording and accompanying affidavit by Skeen had remained in the possession of the Gazette—which printed key portions of them last May—until Friday when it was turned over to Neely's representatives. Neely first had to agree to indemnify the newspaper for any legal expenses of judgments it may incur through use of the material.

Neely, flanked by his top campaign aides, played the hour-long tape and distributed transcripts of it in a hotel suite crowded with more than 25 persons—including Barron's attorney Sam D. Lopinsky and two employees of Democratic state headquarters.

He told newsmen that "in my opinion—to the best of my knowledge, as I know these two men real well, I've heard them talk many times—I have to say... that these voices are the voices of Wally Barron and Orel J. Skeen."

Copies of the alleged Skeen affidavit included this:

"...in a conversation in my home in November, 1959, in Ripley, W. Va., W. W. Barron reiterated a previous offer of $65,000 to me to stay out of the race for governor and throw my support for him; that he said he was willing to talk 'cold turkey' along this line of governorship and we would pitch in together and if we made the grade together we would 'share and share alike'; that the tape recording which I have given to the Charleston Gazette is a true recording of that conversation."

Skeen Silent

Skeen, reached at his office Friday, declined comment. Last May he told the Gazette that he recorded the conversation with the help of a former FBI man by planting a microphone under a sofa in his living room. The key portion of the recording—(Continued on Page 6)

Two Charged In Wire Theft At Lonaconing

Two young Allegany County residents have been arrested by State Police in connection with the theft of several hundred pounds of wire from the Georges Creek Mining Company at Lonaconing.

Being held in the County Jail is Lewis Junior Airhart, 25, Frostburg. Walter Perry, 23, Clarysville, is being held in the jail at Frostburg.

The two men have been charged with taking about 200 pounds of wire valued at about $100 from the mining company on October 26. The case developed when Tfc. Donald R. Wade found the wire abandoned along U. S. Route 40. Tfc. Wade arrested Airhart last Thursday.

Perry was arrested by Tfc. Thomas E. Ruppert and Trooper Joseph H. Helmstetter.

The theft is being investigated by Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police.

Mathias Lauded As Able And Qualified Legislator

Assistant State's Attorney Donald W. Mason last night urged Western Maryland voters to work for the election of Charles McC. Mathias, saying Sixth District people "cannot afford to permit a continuation of the do-nothing representation it has had to put up with for the past two years."

Speaking at a GOP campaign rally held in the Midland Fire Hall, he said it is imperative that district voters elect an able and qualified man to represent them in Congress.

"We must," he said, "give Nixon a Republican House of Representatives."

Native Marylander

He said Mr. Mathias is a native Marylander, having been born in Frederick, while his opponent, Rep. John R. Foley is a native of Minnesota and came to Maryland 15 years ago.

Mr. Mason briefed the some 115 persons who turned out in spite of the rain on the experiences of Mr. Mathias as a World War II Navy veteran, civic leader and a member of the Maryland General Assembly.

"Mac" was the only Republican elected to the House of Delegates from Frederick County in 1958, he said.

He said "Mac's" Democratic opponent has done nothing for the Sixth District and it is "impossible to determine how he stands on certain legislation."

No Opinion

Stressing Rep. Foley's vote of "present" on the Landrum-Griffin labor bill, the GOP speaker said Foley was the only member of the House of Representatives who failed to register his opinion, one way or another, on the bill.

He said a legislator who doesn't vote "might just as well stay at home."

He said Rep. Foley "has been attempting to play politics with both labor and management by dodging the issue and not voting one way or another."

Mr. Mason said Foley failures include his failure to pass Senator Beall's C & O Canal bill "after he promised he could do it with a 2-1 Democratic majority in the House."

Referring to Rep. Foley's alleged violation of the free mailing privilege, he explained a Congressman is allowed to use the privilege for "official business" and that Foley violated the privilege by using his August 1960 newsletter to urge support for Democratic candidates.

He said the Post Office Department has notified Foley of the violation of the law "but as of yet I haven't heard whether or not Foley has reimbursed the Post Office for spending the taxpayer's money for partisan political mailing."

Thomas N. Berry, local attorney, urged the election of the Nixon-Lodge ticket.

It is a time, he said, for experienced men, not for an experiment.

David Williams, former Allegany County delegate, served as master of ceremonies.

The committee planning the rally included Mr. and Mrs. James Blair, County Commissioner William A. Wilson and Deputy Sheriff William E. "Scotty" Orr.

SOMERVILLE NICHOLSON

County Official Dies Suddenly In Automobile

Department Head In Freak Mishap

Somerville Nicholson, 63, supervisor of assessments for Allegany County, died at the wheel of his automobile which crashed into a fence on Fayette Street across from his residence shortly before 9 o'clock last night.

He was pronounced dead at Memorial Hospital where an autopsy was performed to determine the cause of death.

Police, who were present at the autopsy, said that death was attributed to a heart attack, which apparently caused his death before the crash occurred.

Witnesses said Mr. Nicholson was driving east on Fayette Street when he apparently started to park his car across the street from his home at 410 Fayette Street.

The automobile suddenly speeded up, jumped the curb and crossed the sidewalk, crashing into a wire fence and hedge on the property at 407 Fayette. The vehicle came to a stop, narrowly missing crashing into the side of a building at the corner of Chase and Fayette street.

Ambulance Is Called

Officer Joseph Harvey of the City Police investigated the accident which occurred at 8:56 p.m. An ambulance was called and took Mr. Nicholson's body to the hospital.

The car missed three young boys walking along the sidewalk "trick or treating" on Halloween night.

Mr. Nicholson had held his present position as supervisor of county assessments for 32 years. He was a past president of the State Association of Assessors and also was past president of the National Association of Assessors.

The well-known county official was a member of Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles; the Cumberland Rotary Club, was a director of the First National Bank of Cumberland.

Active in civic affairs, Mr. Nicholson was long interested in Central YMCA and the old YMCA camp on the South Branch. He served as a member of the YMCA board and was one of a seven-man committee organized to prevent a mortgage foreclosure of the YMCA in 1940, helping launch the Save-the-Y-Drive. He was also

Parents Testify In Bus-Train Crash Hearing

Case Continuing In Garrett Court

Parents of one of the school children injured in the bus-train accident last year at the B&O crossing in Loch Lynn were among those who testified yesterday in Garrett County Circuit Court on the opening day of the hearing of two damage suits totaling $200,000.

Plaintiffs in the consolidated cases are Sandra Jean Patton, 14, through her father, James Patton, and Mary Jane Lee, 17, through her mother, Mrs. Evelyn Lee, who are being represented by Stuart Hamill Jr., who made the opening statement before the jury of ten men and two women.

Sandra's father, who was a witness to the accident in which eight school children were killed, testified yesterday afternoon and took the stand prior to his wife.

Trooper Heard

Among others who testified were Trooper D. A. Tucker, who presented a number of photographs which were taken at the scene of the accident on September 10, 1959, as the school bus was transporting the children to classes.

A statement which Trooper Tucker and Corporal Robert Henline took from the engineer shortly after the accident was objected to by Attorney Walter W. Dawson, counsel for the railroad. The request for admission of the statement as testimony was later withdrawn, it was reported.

R. W. Morrow, commercial photographer of Oakland, took the witness stand and presented a number of photographs to the court as evidence in the case.

Also taking the witness stand was Robert Wilson, local engineer, who made a survey of the tracks where the accident occurred in the Garrett County community. The final witness yesterday was Dr. Joseph Alvarez, Oakland physician, who testified that both children were permanently injured in the accident.

The testimony will resume this morning at 9:30 and court attaches surmise the case being presided over by Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley should be completed Wednesday or Thursday.

Driver Blamed

In his opening statement yesterday morning Attorney Hamill said the bus driver, Leroy Campbell, failed to open the emergency door and became panicky and in a state of shock when the bus stalled on the crossing.

Hamill said Campbell got out of the bus and tried to wave down the train, then he again entered the bus and tried to get the children to leave. The children by this time had also panicked, Hamill declared.

Hamill also brought out that the train's engineer was near 70 years of age and that the eight cars and three diesel locomotives were traveling at top speed. He also claimed that the train was still traveling near top speed when the crash occurred.

Hamill stated that there was ample time for the train to stop.

Lewis Jones, attorney for Campbell, said the bus had four speeds forward and was in good mechanical condition. There was no reason why it should have stalled, he stated. He cited that Campbell had been a school bus driver ten years.

Walter Dawson, counsel for the B&O Railroad, told the jury that the train was operated on slow time while the school bus was on fast time.

Dawson also took occasion to blame Campbell for failing to stop and look and listen before driving onto the tracks. All parties agreed that visibility was excellent the day of the tragedy.

Attorney Dawson said it was not so much a question of what Campbell did, but what he didn't do. Dawson said that eight passenger coaches and three diesel locomotives comprise a heavy tonnage and it is difficult to stop a train as a result.

The suits are against Campbell and the railroad company. A sister of one of the plaintiffs, Mary Jane Lee, was killed in the crash along with seven other children. Nine other children were seriously injured.

Neely Plays Recording; Barron To Sue

Democrat Rival Charges Slander

By J. RICHARD TOREN

United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Harold E. Neely, Republican nominee for governor, released the Barron-Skeen "tape recording" to the news on Monday and his Democratic opponent W. W. Barron countered immediately with a $400,000 slander suit.

Neely played the tape, allegedly showing that Barron offered $65,000 to State Treasurer Orel J. Skeen last November to stay out of the gubernatorial race, at a 9 a.m. news conference.

Seven hours later, at his own news conference, Barron announced that he had instructed his attorney to file suit against Neely "who today circulated... malicious falsehoods through a rigged tape recording."

He charged Neely with "simply trying to confuse the voters... (and) smear the Democratic party so that the people's attention will be diverted."

Barron, the state attorney general since 1957, previously had filed a $300,000 suit against Skeen the day after the Charleston Gazette printed Skeen's charges last May 4.

Terms Not Disclosed

Barron went on to win the Democratic gubernatorial nomination handily — with Skeen running a poor third — then settled the suit out of court Oct. 7. Terms were not disclosed, but Skeen said publicly he regretted having acted hastily in making charges against Barron, and the attorney general said he felt he had been "completely vindicated."

The tape recording and accompanying affidavit by Skeen had remained in the possession of the Gazette — which printed key portions of them last May — until Friday when it was turned over to Neely's representatives. Neely first had to agree to indemnify the newspaper for any legal expenses of judgments it may incur through use of the material.

Neely, flanked by his top campaign aides, played the hour-long tape and distributed transcripts of it in a hotel suite crowded with more than 25 persons — including Barron's attorney Sam D. Lopinsky and two employees of Democratic state headquarters.

He told newsmen that "In my opinion—to the best of my knowledge, as I know these two men real well, I've heard them talk many times — I have to say... that these voices are the voices of Wally Barron and Orel J. Skeen."

Copies of the alleged Skeen affidavit included this:

"...in a conversation in my home in November, 1959, in Ripley, W. Va., W. W. Barron reiterated a previous offer of $65,000 to me to stay out of the race for governor and throw my support for him; that he said he was willing to talk 'cold turkey' along this line of governance and we would pitch in together and if we made the grade together we would 'share and share alike'; that the tape recording which I have given to the Charleston Gazette is a true recording of that conversation."

Skeen Silent

Skeen, reached at his office Friday, declined comment. Last May he told the Gazette that he recorded the conversation with the help of a former FBI man by planting a microphone under a sofa in his living room.

Two Charged In Wire Theft At Lonaconing

Two young Allegany County residents have been arrested by State Police in connection with the theft of several hundred pounds of wire from the Georges Creek Mining Company at Lonaconing.

Being held in the County Jail is Lewis Junior Airhart, 25, Frostburg. Walter Perry, 23, Clarksburg, is being held in the jail at Frostburg.

The two men have been charged with taking about 200 pounds of wire valued at about $100 from the mining company on October 26.

The case developed when T. Donald R. Wade found the wire abandoned along U. S. Route 40. T. Wade arrested Airhart last Thursday.

Perry was arrested by T. Thomas E. Ruppert and Trooper Joseph H. Helmstetter.

The theft is being investigated by Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police.

Mathias Lauded As Able And Qualified Legislator

Assistant State's Attorney Donald W. Mason last night urged Western Maryland voters to work for the election of Charles McC. Mathias, saying Sixth District people "cannot afford to permit a continuation of the do-nothing representation it has had to put up with for the past two years."

Speaking at a GOP campaign rally held in the Midland Fire Hall, he said it is imperative that district voters elect an able and qualified man to represent them in Congress.

"We must," he said, "give Nixon a Republican House of Representatives."

Native Marylander

He said Mr. Mathias is a native Marylander, having been born in Frederick, while his opponent, Rep. John R. Foley is a native of Minnesota and came to Maryland 15 years ago.

Mr. Mason briefed the some 115 persons who turned out in spite of the rain on the experiences of Mr. Mathias as a World War II Navy veteran, civic leader and a member of the Maryland General Assembly.

"Mac" was the only Republican elected to the House of Delegates from Frederick County in 1958, he said.

He said "Mac's" Democratic opponent has done nothing for the Sixth District and it is "impossible to determine how he stands on certain legislation."

No Opinion

Stressing Rep. Foley's vote of "present" on the Landrum-Griffin labor bill, the GOP speaker said Foley was the only member of the House of Representatives who failed to register his opinion, one way or another, on the bill.

He said a legislator who doesn't vote "might just as well stay at home."

He said Rep. Foley "has been attempting to play politics with both labor and management by dodging the issue and not voting one way or another."

Mr. Mason said Foley failures include his failure to pass Senator Beall's C & O Canal bill "after he promised he could do it with a 2-1 Democratic majority in the House."

Referring to Rep. Foley's alleged violation of the free mailing privilege, he explained a Congressman is allowed to use the privilege for "official business" and that Foley violated the privilege by using his August 1960 newsletter to urge support for Democratic candidates.

He said the Post Office Department has notified Foley of the violation of the law "but as of yet I haven't heard whether or not Foley has reimbursed the taxpayer's money for partisan political mailing."

Thomas N. Berry, local attorney, urged the election of the Nixon-Lodge ticket.

It is a time, he said, for experienced men, not for an experiment.

David Williams, former Allegany County delegate, served as master of ceremonies.

The committee planning the rally included Mr. and Mrs. James Blair, County Commissioner William A. Wilson and Deputy Sheriff William E. "Scotty" Orr.

SOMERVILLE NICHOLSON

County Official Dies Suddenly In Automobile

Department Head In Freak Mishap

Somerville Nicholson, 63, supervisor of assessments for Allegany County, died at the wheel of his automobile which crashed into a fence on Fayette Street across from his residence shortly before 9 o'clock last night.

He was pronounced dead at Memorial Hospital where an autopsy was performed to determine the cause of death.

Police, who were present at the autopsy, said that death was attributed to a heart attack, which apparently caused his death before the crash occurred.

Witnesses said Mr. Nicholson was driving east on Fayette Street when he apparently started to park his car across the street from his home at 410 Fayette Street.

The automobile suddenly speeded up, jumped the curb and crossed the sidewalk, crashing into a wire fence and hedge on the property at 407 Fayette. The vehicle came to a stop, narrowly missing crashing into the side of a building at the corner of Chase and Fayette street.

Ambulance Is Called

Officer Joseph Harvey of the City Police investigated the accident which occurred at 8:56 p.m. An ambulance was called and took Mr. Nicholson's body to the hospital.

The car missed three young boys walking along the sidewalk "trick or treating" on Halloween night.

Mr. Nicholson had held his present position as supervisor of county assessments for 32 years. He was a past president of the State Association of Assessors and also was past president of the National Association of Assessors.

The well-known county official was a member of Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles; the Cumberland Rotary Club, was a director of the First National Bank of Cumberland.

Active in civic affairs, Mr. Nicholson was long interested in Central YMCA and the old YMCA camp on the South Branch. He served as a member of the YMCA board and was one of a seven-man committee organized to prevent a mortgage foreclosure of the YMCA in 1940, helping launch the Save-the-Y-Drive. Parents Testify In Bus-Train Crash Hearing

Parents of one of the school children injured in the bus-train accident last year at the B&O crossing in Loch Lynn were among those who testified yesterday in Garrett County Circuit Court on the opening day of the hearing of two damage suits totaling $200,000.

Plaintiffs in the consolidated cases are Sandra Jean Patton, 14, through her father, James Patton, and Mary Jane Lee, 17, through her mother, Mrs. Evelyn Lee, who are being represented by Stuart Hamill Jr., who made the opening statement before the jury of ten men and two women.

Sandra's father, who was a witness to the accident in which eight school children were killed, testified yesterday afternoon and took the stand prior to his wife.

Trooper Heard

Among others who testified were Trooper D. A. Tucker, who presented a number of photographs which were taken at the scene of the accident on September 10, 1959, as the school bus was transporting the children to classes.

A statement which Trooper Tucker and Corporal Robert Henline took from the engineer shortly after the accident was offered by Attorney Walter W. Dawson, counsel for the railroad. The request for admission of the statement as testimony was later withdrawn, it was reported.

R. W. Morrow, commercial photographer of Oakland, took the witness stand and presented a number of photographs to the court as evidence in the case.

Also taking the witness stand was Robert Wilson, local engineer, who made a survey of the tracks where the accident occurred in the Garrett County community. The final witness yesterday was Dr. Joseph Alvarez, Oakland physician, who testified that both children were permanently injured in the accident.

The testimony will resume this morning at 9:30 and court attaches surmise the case being presided over by Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley should be completed Wednesday or Thursday.

Driver Blamed

In his opening statement yesterday morning Attorney Hamill said the bus driver, Leroy Campbell, failed to open the emergency door and became panicky and in a state of shock when the bus stalled on the crossing.

Hamill said Campbell got out of the bus and tried to wave down the train, then he again entered the bus and tried to get the children to leave. The children by this time had also panicked, Hamill declared.

Hamill also brought out that the train's engineer was near 70 years of age and that the eight cars and three diesel locomotives were traveling at top speed. He also claimed that the train was still traveling near top speed when the crash occurred.

Hamill stated that there was ample time for the train to stop.

Lewis Jones, attorney for Campbell, said the bus had four speeds forward and was in good mechanical condition. There was no reason why it should have stalled, he stated. He cited that Campbell had been a school bus driver ten years.

Walter Dawson, counsel for the B&O Railroad, told the jury that the train was operated on slow time while the school bus was on fast time.

Dawson also took occasion to blame Campbell for failing to stop and look and listen before driving onto the tracks. All parties agreed that visibility was excellent the day of the tragedy.

Attorney Dawson said it was not so much a question of what Campbell did, but what he didn't do. Dawson said that eight passenger coaches and three diesel locomotives comprise a heavy tonnage and it is difficult to stop a train as a result.

The suits are against Campbell and the railroad company. A sister of one of the plaintiffs, Mary Jane Lee, was killed in the crash along with seven other children. Nine other children were seriously injured.
